Apollonauts Descend To Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Apollo 16 astronauts separated their lunar ship Orion from the command ship today and prepared to descend from orbit to explore where man has never been—a mountain region of the moon.

John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. cast off on their lunar adventure three hours after they donned their moon suits and climbed into Orion, the moon landing module, to thoroughly check communications, fuel, electrical and other systems.

Eager to ,start, they boarded the ship 40 minutes early.

Mission Control emphasized there was no concern about the health of the men and that the move was merely precautionary.

Capsule communicator Don Peterson told them medical analysis indicated "your potassium levels are running a little low and we recommended you drink more orange juice. You've got a long day ahead, so we recommend you eat more food."

A potassium-laced diet was ordered for Apollo 16 after the Apollo 15 moon walkers suffered episodes of irregular heartbeats last summer.

John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. were set for an afternoon drop to a rugged, undulating plateau high in the Descartes Mountains where they seek proof of ancient volcanic activity and hope to find the source of original lunar rock.

Touchdown of the landing ship Orion was scheduled for 2:41 p.m. Bootheel Time, leaving Thomas K. Mattingly II alone in lunar orbit.

As the landing neared, Young expressed some concern about zipping up Duke's moon suit. He had trouble during a dress rehearsal Tuesday and asked Wednesday night if he could use pliers.

Mission Control objected and expressed the opinion that the problem was associated with weightlessness and would clear up in the one-sixth gravity on the moon.

The astronauts got a preview of what would be ahead when they passed over the landing site shortly after firing into lunar orbit Wednesday.

"The crater Descartes stands out much bigger than you'd expect," Duke reported. "The area has a much blockier, jumbled appearance than in the photographs."

"It's fantastic. Boy, is that rough," added Young.

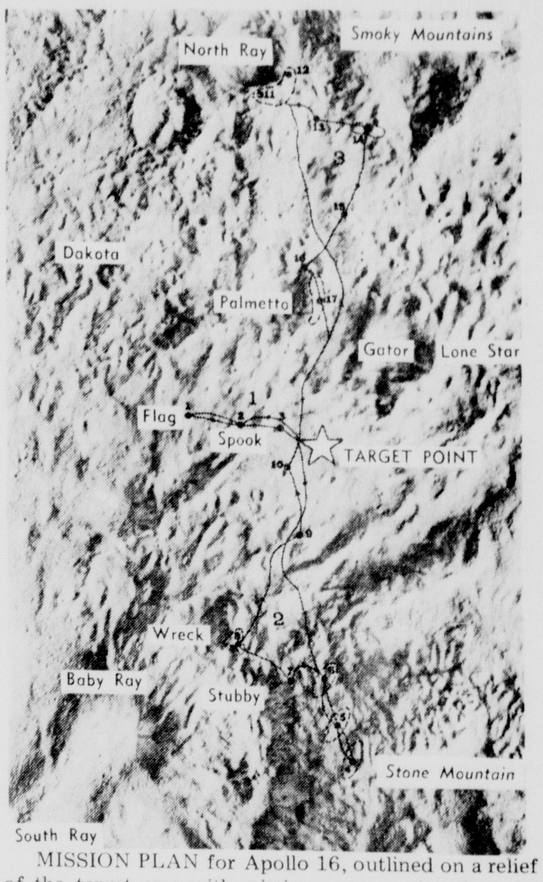
Geologists at Mission Control were heartened that the astronauts would find the volcanic evidence when Duke commented: "It looks very much like a big clinkery cinder field but on a much larger scale. Big rounded surface clinkers."

On earth, cinder cones and clinkers are associated with volcanism.

Young and Duke planned to spend a record 73 hours on the mountain ringed Descartes plateau, driving an electric powered moon car on three excursions to probe mountains and craters. Their first trip starts at 7:18 p.m. EST.

Mattingly will be busy in lunar orbit, operating a $10-million array of cameras intended to map chemically and photographically the strip of moon over which he passes in the command ship Casper.

The stage was set for the ninth and 10th Americans to step on the moon when the astronauts triggered the big engine of the command ship at 3:23 p.m. Wednesday and swept into an initial orbit ranging from 67 to 196 miles above the surface.



MISSION PLAN for Apollo 16, outlined on a relief of the target area with mission names assigned to the most prominent surface features, calls for extensive exploration due north and south of the touchdown point. Numbers indicate stops and experiment activity in sequence.

George E. Wright, Coroner Gene Nunnelee and Trooper Norris Grissom pull the body of Virgil Talley of Bell City from his overturned automobile, five miles north of Sikeston, last night. Heavy Fighting Erupts Again Today At An Loc

SAIGON (AP) -- Heavy fighting erupted anew today on two sides of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, after a 1,600- round enemy artillery bombardment of the war-torn provincial capital. Six North Vietnamese tanks were reported destroyed.

U. S. spokesmen disclosed meanwhile that ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet battled North Vietnamese MIG planes, torpedo boats and shore batteries this week in some of the heaviest sea action of the Indochina war.

The destroyer Higbee and the 7th Fleet flagship, the cruiser Oklahoma City, were damaged. Four Americans were wounded. A MIG jet that bombed the Higbee was shot down by a missile, the Navy said, and it was believed that three North Vietnamese torpedo boats were sunk and a fourth was damaged.

The allied commands also reported that the North Vietnamese offensive, now in its 22nd day, pushed Vietnamese casualties on both sides last week to their highest levels since the 1968 Tet offensive. The South Vietnamese command reported 1,002 of its troops and 7,117 enemy killed; the U. S. Command reported 12 American battlefield deaths for the second week in a row, the biggest total in six months.

The South Vietnamese command said that its paratroopers and rangers were locked in heavy fighting at midway half a mile north and half a mile east of An Loc.

Twenty U.S. B52s dropped 500 tons of explosives on three sides of the city, trying to break up the enemy concentrations besieging the city.

Field reports said North Vietnamese troops spearheaded by tanks renewed the attack from the north and from the southeast.

One battle 2½ miles southeast of the city around a paratrooper position known as Hill 169 was described as "close combat," and casualties were believed to be heavy on both sides.

Boy Runs Into Truck

Mark Reinbott, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rienbott, 443 N. Ingram, was seriously injured at 8 a.m. today when he ran into the rear of a passing truck while playing in front of 407 North Ingram.

The driver of the truck, Paul Samuel Talbert, 422 William, told police the boy was playing by a utility pole. Talbert said another child was chasing Reinbott, who ran into the street and struck the right rear of the truck.

The boy was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital and transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis with serious head injuries and a large cut.

Bell City Man Killed

Virgil R. Talley, 31, of Bell City was killed at 7:40 p.m. uesterday when he lost control of his automobile two miles north of Sikeston on highway 61.

Talley was southbound at a high rate of speed when he attempted to pass a car driven by George Miller, 38, of Sikeston,the state patrol reported. Oncoming traffic forced him back on to the right side of the road where he struck the rear of the Miller car.

Talley's car skidded off the left side of the road, overturned and landed on its top. Talley was thrown out and pinned under his car.

Miller's car was knocked off the right side of the road onto the shoulder. He was not injured.

In another accident, Harold Dillard Rogers, 57, of route four, Sikeston, received a concussion and cuts on the head at 8 p.m. yesterday when his truck missed a curve on a highway north of Bell City. The location of the wreck was not determined because the truck had been moved, the patrol said.

Rogers was brought to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he is reported in good condition.

Change In Venue Asked For Kirk

POPLAR BLUFF — Butler County authorities went to court today to seek a change of venue in the robbery case of William Timothy Kirk of Sikeston.

No reason was given for the request. If granted, the case will probably be heard in Ripley county.

Kirk is charged with the Oct. 13, 1971, robbery of Poplar Bluff Jewelry store owner Lewis C. Fuller and his wife at their home. Several thousand dollars worth of valuables were taken including a diamond ring valued at $10,000.

Kirk and another man, Wert L. Akin of Memphis were arrested by Dexter police after the robbery.

Kirk is charged with the July 13, 1971 slaying of James Allen Roose of Sikeston on Ables road south of Miner.

Since his arrest on murder charges Kirk has been accused of selling a stolen vehicle in Memphis.

The Robbery case will be heard before Kirk faces the murder charges in Scott County.

Kidnap Report A Hoax

BENTON — The story told to police Monday by W.C. Bourland of Olive Branch, Miss., that he was forced to drive to Scott City by a hitchhiker he picked up at White Haven, Tenn., today was called a hoax.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today that Bourland apparently had family problems and needed an excuse to explain why he was so far from home.

Dennis said he doesn't know if charges will be filed against Bourland since the incident involves Missouri, Arkansas, Tennesse and Mississippi law enforcement agencies. The decision to prosecute will be up to Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore.

Bourland told police that he picked up the hitchhiker at White Haven and then was forced to drive to Scott City. He told police he thought the man had a gun. He also had the man robbed him of $20 in Arkansas.

Police and sheriff's offices were searching for the man when Bourland admitted he had been lying.

Harper Resigns As Lions President

Robert Scott

Noel Harper has resigned as president of the Lions Club because he will be away from Sikeston for three months.

He will be succeeded by Robert Scott, an insurance man.

Harper, an employe of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, has been assigned to the Houston office of the utility for three months.

This was the second advance as a Lions club officer this year for Scott. Earlier he was elevated to first vice president when Harper became president.

Harper succeeded Ira Keller, who resigned because of health problems.

The club heard a plea for federal aid for the nation's railroads yesterday noon at its meeting at the Travelodge motel.

The volume of freight in the United States is growing rapidly, so rapidly the American transportation industry may not be able to meet the demand without the help of a bill pending in Congress, according to Gene Randall, an assistant purchasing agent for the Frisco Railroad in Springfield.

Randall spoke to the Lions Club yesterday.

The bill, called the Surface Transportation Act of 1971, is receiving support from the carrier industry, Randall said. The trucking, water transportation, and railroad industries have set aside their differences to push for passage of the act, he added.

The act would establish a revenue financing division within the U. S. Department of the Treasury -- modeled along the lines of the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation -- which would make up to $5 billion in loans and guarantees available for transportation companies. Today, Randall said, there is no one place where these firms can go to get large loans.

The act would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to develop rate standards that are fair and adaquate for all carriers.

The law would prohibit discriminatory tax practices by states. States often tax transportation firms at a higher rate than other businesses, he said.

The bill would require that five per cent of all federal highway funds be used by states to improve rail road crossings. States now have the power to do so but usually spend the money elsewhere, Randall said. He added, railroads would maintain the crossings after warning signals are installed.

SUPER-SCINETIFIC TRANSPO 72 SHOW

It is difficult to believe that automobiles and airplanes, so commonplace today, were not invented until around the turn of this century, and that jet travel was unknown before 1930. And it is even more difficult to believe that the day of the super-scientific, Buck Rogers - Dick Tracy style people-movers is just around the corner. But you had better believe it, says U. S. Secretary of Transportation, John A. Volpe; and to hammer home the point, the U. S. Department of Transportation is sponsoring, from May 27 to June 4, 1972, at the Dulles International Airport near Washington, D.C., a mammoth International Transportation Exposition called TRANSPO 72.

TRANSPO 72 will be a major effort to bridge the gap between the present and the future, and to focus attention on the hard solutions we need to meet the problems concurrent with our rapidly growing, and changing, transportation. Explains Secretary Volpe: "We want to emphasize the need for totally integrated systems in our future transportation."

Surely few areas of our economy are as vital as our ability to transport people and things. We depend upon transportation for the food we eat, the clothes we wear, our shelter, recreation and health. But, existing methods are strained beyond capacity. We are plagued with over-crowding, delays, pollution, inefficiency, and an enormous toll of life and limb. What we now have is no longer adequate to meet the demands of the present, mush less the future.

It is for that purpose that Secretary Volpe has marshalled over 300 industrial exhibitors from all over the world to display, at TRANSPO 72, the very latest advances in land, sea, air and space transportation. It is expected that almost a million people will attend the nine-day, open-to- the-public exposition where they will see trains that skim along a thin cushion of air; advanced - concept magnietic suspension vehicles, propelled by pollution-free "linear" motors; prototype vehicles that will zip around a demonstration highway completely controlled (both steering and speed) by electronic sensors; periscope-equipped automobiles designed to allow occupants to survive crashes at speeds up to 75 miles an hour, and literally hundreds of other transportation machines.

In addition, TRANSPO 72 will feature performances by the U. S. Air Force Thunderbirds, U. S. Navy Blue Angels, the U. S. Army Golden Knights parachute jump team, and other spectacular air shows.

Every American has an interest in the success of TRANSPO 72, because every American has a stake in our future. Those who visit this first-of-a-kind exposition will find much to reward, interest, and entertain every member of the family. You would do well to include TRANSPO 72 in your travel plans.

ROMNEY AND SCANDAL

George Romney has emerged as a sympathetic character despite the housing scandal rocking his Department of Housing and Urban Development. Perhaps because he has been forthright enough to admit the most federal low-income housing policies have failed, Secretary Romney comes on as a federal official dedicated to telling the truth.

In any case, the Ripon Society will present the former Michigan governor with its award as "Republican of the Year" at a dinner Saturday, April 22, in Detroit. The society cited Romney for his "open communities policy to encourage low-income housing in the suburbs, where the jobs are" and said this "will have a long-term positive effect unmatched by any other domestic policy in this administration."

In a speech before the Detroit Economic Club March 27, Romney described how his agency set out in 1969 to meet the ambitious housing goals set forth by the Housing and urban Development Act of 1968. "In retrospect," he declared, "it was a mistake -- in part -- not to realize the FHA's lack of preparation for its new role in central cities and their exposure to speculators and fast-buck artists." Romney said he was "angered and determined to eliminate shoddy workmanship, and forms of 'legal' profiteering that take advantage of technicalities to defraud the home buyer and the taxpaying public."

Romney has a tough road ahead. A House Government Operations Committee found speculators making huge profits -- as much as 60 to 70 per cent of three months -- in housing rehabilitation programs in Detroit. The House Banking and Currency Committee has been told that up to half of all housing subsidy money in Boston goes to middlemen, not to the poor for whom it was intended. Within a few years the government will be holding 240,000 housing units in mortgage default. The housing scandal is so broad and deep, in fact, that George Romney's candor may have been the only thing to save the Nixon administration from disastrous political repercussions.

APRIL

PROTEST

Antiwar groups, suffering from a decline in public support, are counting on the current Communist offensive in South Viet Nam and stepped-up American air warfare to pep up demonstrations set for New York City and Los Angeles on Saturday, April 22. "It's a whole new ball game now," commented Carl Finamore of the National Peace Action Coalition. It is sponsoring the demonstrations and calling for an end to the bombing in Indochina and an immediate withdrawal of American military forces from Southeast Asia.

The demonstrations are part of an international day of protest endorsed last February in Paris by the World Peace Assembly. Demonstrations also are planned in Belgium, Canada, Denmark, England, France, Ireland, Lebanon, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Scotland, Sweden and Switzerland. The marches have already received the endorsements of many labor, student and political leaders, including Reps. Shirley Chisholm (D N.Y.), Bella S. Abzug (D N.Y.), Ronald V. Dellums (D Calif.), Sen. Vance Hartke (D Ind.), and presidential aspirants George McGovern, Hubert H. Humphrey, Eugene McCarthy and Linda Jenness, nominee of the Social Workers Party.

April 22 will be the second major event in a six-week spring offensive against the war. On April 1, 10,000 protestors gathered in Harrisburg, Pa., in support of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six co-defendants in a conspiracy trial. A series of local actions have been set for the first week in May centering on U. S. corporations manufacturing arms.

Coordinators of the April 22 demonstrations admit that the turnout may fall short of similar marches a year ago that attracted 200,000 protesters in Washington, D.C., and 156,000 in San Francisco. Many supporters of the antiwar movement now are focusing their energies on political activities. Public sentiment that the war is winding down also has reduced participation. Division over strategy within the antiwar movement is reflected in the failure of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice to endorse the new demonstrations. Some of its members feel that the scope of demonstrations is too narrow. They want to link the antiwar movement with protests over poverty, racism, and political repression. Others believe that mass demonstrations are no longer effective either in building the movement or in putting pressure on the government to end the war.

For many, reverence for the law is no longer a sacred principle. The attributes so vital to impartial courtroom procedure are scorned, and court authority is tested ... If the judiciary is to keep the faith of the American people, then it must deal promptly and decisively with vituperative outbursts and disruptive tactics in court. NEW YORK (AP) — Take 11,000 chickens.

Skin, quarter, cut, slice, bone, halve, dice, cube, pound or grind. Add stuffings, seasonings, flavorings, sauces, fruits, vegetables, nuts, soft drinks, hard drinks, gelatine, cheese, soup, milk, eggs, molasses, cereal or ice cream. Boil, broil, barbecue, bake, roast, simmer, saute, fry or grill.

There's a chicken recipe for every taste among the 11,000 submitted in the National Broiler Council's chicken cooking contest. The nation's chicken cooks, male and female, young and old, have included among the ingredients in their entries almost every edible item in a well-stocked grocery.

Nostalgic for the days of your youth, the Saturday movie matinee, the county fair? Circus chicken may be just your dish, with a popcorn-peanut coating flavored with lemonade.

Something a bit more sophisticated, perhaps? There's chicken a la mode—with ice cream. If you like to think pink, try chicken topped with strawberry ice cream mixed with rose wine.

In fact, eating the dinnertime cocktail is in vogue in chickenmunching circles this year. Alcoholic beverages—from beer to champagne—figure prominently in the recipes as cooking liquid or in sauce.

Those who prefer to keep their chickens sober can try banana caramel sauce. And chickens cooked in tea, coffee, cola, sauerkraut juice, cranberry juice, orange juice, sour cream or honey are guaranteed not to give fowl fanciers a hangover.

The stuffing could be rhubarb, chopped hot dogs or, for those who like the unusual, a combination of fish sticks, cream cheese and lemon gelatine.

Eight home economists screened the thousands of recipes in a process that will eventually lead to a cookoff among the finalists in 50 states and the District of Columbia. In addition to a few cases of queasiness from the stranger combinations panel members got some laughs.

"Take one whole friar," wrote one contestant, possibly under the assumption that ingredients could be acquired from religious orders as well as grocery orders.

Every part of the chicken except the peep has its champions. Aside from such delicacies as breast of chicken fixed in hundreds of ways, there's gizzard goulash, heart kabobs, wings Chinese style, crown roast of drumsticks, recipes calling for feet, and neck skins used for sausage casings. Plus 14-carrot chicken soup.

Despite the many off-beat recipes, one seasoning didn't get a mention. Nobody suggested putting pot in the chicken instead of putting chicken in the pot.

A MAYBE—NOT ON MAIL HIKE

The best news we have heard to date from the nine-month old United States Postal Service is that its rates may not go up again in September after all.

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen says the service is "exploring every possibility" for cutting costs to avert another hike. Mechanization is being stepped up, because 85 per cent of the outgo is for labor - 700,000 employees.

Large business mailers, mainly direct-mail advertisers and publishers of newspapers and magazines, were hit hardest by the postage hike of last May, which also jumped the price of posting a first-class letter from 6 to 8 cents.

Mr. Klassen says if higher rates are required, first-class mail users will bear most of the load, probably through hiking the 8-cent stamp to 9 or 10 cents. The Postmaster General's explanation was unfortunate: "To the housewife mailing six or eight bills and letters a month, that's insignificant. I'm more concerned with the big mail users."

The sentiment will make a reverse hit with housewives and their husbands. They have more votes than corporate executives, and Mr. Klassen admits that new postal rate increases in September would have a "fairly significant" impact on the November elections. He is right about that. — Miami (Fla.) Herald.

US SHOULD PROTECT FUTURE OCEAN RIGHTS BUSINESS GROUP SAYS

"Oceans: The New Frontier" is the title of a new booklet published by the National Association of Manufacturers.

It tells the story of the great importance of ocean resources for the nation's future use and for national security. It also urges the rejection of the proposed treaty that would internationalize ocean waters beyond 200 meters in depth.

The booklet was published by the Natural Resources Management and Conservation COmmittee under the chairmanship of William L. Naumann, executive vice president, Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria, Ill., and a copy may be obtained without charge by writing to the NAM, 277 Park Avenue., N.Y., N.Y.10017.

PREVIEW OF THE FUTURE

East of San Francisco, California, in the Sierra Nevada range, there is an example of multiple use of natural resources on private lands that shows the pattern of adjustment taking place between man and the environment. In an attractive road-map type folder, the nation's largest investor-owned electric power company invites the public to be its guest at its public campgrounds, many of which are in the vicinity of reservoirs that provide hundreds of thousands of kilowatts of power to the communities and farms of California.

A dozen company- maintained camp and picnic grounds are described in detail. The public can enjoy some of the most beautiful mountain country of the West. In addition to the recreational facilities, there are also resorts and lodges where supplies and accommodations are offered. It is significant that in the midst of a recreational paradise lies a man-developed energy supply for one of the heaviest energy-consuming regions of the U. S. Neither intrudes on the other. Here is combined both recreation and productive taxpaying enterprise under conditions compatible with nature and the environment

The power company folder is more than a travel map for vacationers. It is a preview of the future relationship between people and the land.

FOAM RUBBER MEETS NEW FIRE STANDARDS

Carpet underlays installed in Federal Housing Administration projects after September 1, 1971 must meet new flammability requirements. The latex foam rubber industry has developed new fire-retardant latex compounds that meet or exceed the new federal requirements. To meet FHA standards, a carpet underlay must pass the "pill test" in which an aspirin-sized chemical tablet is placed on the underlay, ignited, and allowed to burn out. The foam rubber must not continue to burn or smolder after the pill is burned up, and the burned area cannot extend more than three inches in any direction.

MAKING FOOD SCARCE AND EXPENSIVE

One thing everyone has to do is to eat. All of us are fortunate that our farmers and ranchers have been able to increase the supply of food sufficiently in recent weeks to take some of the pressure off the rising cost of groceries. Because we were on the precipice of federal control of food production, we were on the verge, also, of extensive food shortages.

Every experience with attempting to lower food prices by artificial controls everywhere in the world results in food shortages. It happened to the United States during and long after World War II. More than a year after the Japanese signed armistice papers before General MacArthur on the battleship USS Missouri, "controlled" meat prices were rising out of sight and still demand outraced meat supplies.

Price controls and rationing both were only mildly successful during wartime and failed miserable when the leftists tried to retain them after the war "to protect the consumer." Every communist government enforces price controls and the people of every communist country suffer from inadequate food supplies, especially essential proteins.

Farmers and ranchers, among our very best citizens, have been under fire recently because of rising food prices. But farm food prices have gone up only 7% during the same period that all wages went up 240%, salaries of government employees went up 330% and dividends climbed 200%. The good people who provide our farm products obviously cannot be blamed. Inflation and increased costs, including wages, between the farm and the kitchen, are the culprits. HLH.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Nixon ordered the bombing of the North Vietnamese heartland as much to impress Moscow as to deter Hanoi.

He wanted the Kremlin to understand his quest for peace doesn't mean he can be "pushed around."

In his private conversations, he has declared fiercely that he wants to lower tensions around the world and win re-election in November, but that he won't abandon America's Commitments to achieve these goals.

Nixon has expressed admiration for the late President John F. Kennedy for facing down the Russians during the Cuban missile crisis, and he is prepared to do it again if another confrontation should develop.

Secret intelligence reports suggest that Hanoi expected the anti-war pressures in the United States to keep American air-sea power at bay after the assault across the demilitarized zone. But Hanoi under-estimated Richard Nixon, who never hesitated to strike massive air blows against North Vietnam.

Earlier, he had made secret overtures through both Moscow and Peking to bring pressure on the North Vietnamese to call off the offensive. Chinese Premier Chou En-lai reportedly tried to persuade the North Vietnamese not to risk a military showdown, but they went ahead with the offensive in spite of the advice from Peking.

SOVIET ROLE

The Russians, on the other hand, refused to discourage the attack. Intelligence reports claim that the Kremlin, while it didn't go so far as to encourage Hanoi to invade South Vietnam, had advance knowledge of the invasion plans. The attackers also used Soviet-made tanks, artillery and anti-aircraft missiles.

The President believes the Kremlin could have prevented the invasions by threatening to cut off military supplies. He intends to demonstrate his resolve, therefore, by shutting off the supplies himself, if possible, with a blizzard of bombs.

The Central Intelligence Agency has warned all along that bombing will never stop the needed supplies from reaching communist forces in South Vietnam. General Creighton Abrams, the U.S. Commander in Vietnam, has agreed that the supplies for the present offensive were stockpiled in advance.

But he has warned that Hanoi has the power to continue a prolonged offensive. Twelve of North Vietnam's regular divisions are now fighting in the south. Another division is reported on the way to the front. This leaves only two training divisions at home.

Once the lines become stabilized, Abrams has suggested, the Vietnam War may become a protracted, Korea-style conflict. He recommended the bombing of supply depots around Hanoi and Haiphong, therefore, to disrupt enemy logistics and to reduce the supplies that will reach front-line troops in the months ahead.

MASSIVE AIR SUPPORT

When President Nixon first took over as commander -in-chief the Joints Chiefs advised him that the South Vietnamese Army by itself would be unable to withstand an all-out North Vietnamese assault "in the foreseeable future." This assessment has now been changed, but the Joint Chiefs have warned it will take massive American air support to blunt the North Vietnamese offensive.

In private, meanwhile, the President has repeated again and again that he doesn't intend to be "pushed around" -- not in Vietnam, the Middle East nor anywhere else.

Once, when Jewish leaders were questioning his willingness to support Israel, Nixon asked an aide incredulously: "Can these people really believe that I could sit in this chair and let anything happen to Israel?"

The most competent White House sources tell us emphatically that Richard Nixon would like to avoid a confrontation with the Kremlin but that he won't back down from one.

JUMPING JOE

We tried unsuccessfully to reach our columnist writing colleague, Joe Alsop, prior to our recent report that he was among the bigshot passengers chaufferred around Washington by Pentagon cars in apparent violation of military regulations.

Alsop, who is in Southeast Asia, has now wired us the following response: "I have never used military transport that was not equally available to other reporters of comparable decrepitude.

"In Vietnam," the telegram adds, "I have also followed the strict rule of refusing any assistance going beyond what was given Scotty Reston when he made his trip there."

Reston is the distinguished columnist and vice president of the New York Times, whose views on the war have contrasted with Alsop's hawkish stance.

Footnote: We also reported that during a recent NATO military junket in the United States, cars rented by the Pentagon for the visitors' use in Washington were to be kept on rental while they spent five days traveling elsewhere. After we began looking into the matter and had sent out our column for publication, the plans were abruptly changed and the cars were returned to the rental agency. They were then rented again when the visitors returned to Washington.

Inside Labor

Rackets Rocket Meat Price: mobs' threat to labor peace seen forcing retailers into 20 per cent tribute

NEW YORK — From the tip of Long Island to the islands of Hawaii, local and federal grand juries are probing unions whose regional leaders have been called in and queried about links with sadistic Mafia underbosses, with strange disappearances of vacation, welfare and pension funds, with sabotage, with attempting to poison restaurant foods, with beating other union members and officials, with forcing suppliers' trucks off the roads, with use of union monies in mob real estate manipulations, with shooting bullets into an employer's desk to terrorize him, and with involvement with the goriest violence.

These local union leaders purr contentedly in the unreported gray areas while their national union chiefs are absorbed by national and international politics and conferences.

Some of the local labor caliphs have been indicted. Some haven't. Scandal willfollow scandal when hey reach the courts.

Just wait for the ripening of the New York City grand jury meat racket investigation by rackets bureau chief Al Scotti, colleague of famed District Attorney Frank Hogan who has carried on the crusading tradition of the late Thomas E. Dewey for several decades.

They've been looking into the link between skyrocketing meat prices in supermarkets here and the impact of the mob. And they believe they've found the evidence to prove there is a simple racket:

The Mafia combine goes to some meat wholesalers. The hoods tell the meat distributors to jack up prices. If asked why -- and not too often are such visitors questioned -- the businessmen are told not too often are such visitors questioned -- the businessmen are told not to worry. The retailers will pay the additional cost. Why? Because the combine consists of, according to informed sources, the mob and some unions.

These unions could make it difficult in this vast metropolitan area for the retailer to operate. There just might be a strike, a stoppage, a spoilage -- no labor peace. So don't worry about the retailers, is the word.

The search is into possible violations of the anti-extortion and conspiracy laws. And into whether the additional money charged by the wholesaler and paid by a frightened retailer, whose store is vulnerable , is split between the crime crowd and their fronts in the unions.

In a sense this is what insiders call "the A & P pattern." Some years ago, according to Senate testimoney records, the big grocery chain was pressured by a combination of men linked with the crowd of the late Mafia boss of bosses Vito Genovese and a New Jersey local of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters whose president and some other officials have since been indicted on charges of stealing some $32,000 from Local 404 covering New Jersey and New York from its East Orange, N.J., headquarters.

The Manhattan District Attorney's office here reportedly believes that this type of operation could well be the pattern in other metropolitan areas around the nation. And a federal racket-smashing source says, why not? -- there's as much imagination among the Mafia families in the Midwest and West as there is in the New York metropolitan area.

Ofthis, the U.S. Senate Commerce Committee investigators appear to be certain. It is this group, under the chairmanship of Warren Magnuson, D.-Wash., which went into the mob's effort to push what has been called an inferior detergent. It was produced by a small chemical company and the mob-labor combination pressured the A & P chain. Coincidentally, with that sales drive there were some 16 fires in the chain's stores, the federal authorities point out. Not to mention much blood spilling.

Now the Magnuson committee probers see the same pattern nation-wide in foodstuffs -- meat included. Stolen meat. Rotten meat.

Had it not been for the Presidential primary campaigns and the turbulent international news, the committee would have held its public hearings weeks ago. Now they are scheduled for the third week in May.

Then the story behind the terror tax-- the mob's own levy on foodstuffs, be it meat, seafood, canned goods, even bread and milk--may be told. If not, then the story will be pushed by Montana's Congressman John Melcher. As a member of the House Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains of the House Agriculture Committee, Melcher has gotten some strange figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

There is a huge differential between meat prices in the Northeast complex -- Boston, New York - New Jersey, Philadelphia, and Baltimore -- compared, said he, even with a metropolis such as Chicago. Sometimes the difference on foodstuffs is 20 per cent. He has asked both the General Accounting Office and the Justice Dept. to probe the inexplicable higher prices in the racket-dominated Northeast.

So to mix a metaphor, food is being taken out of the mouths of the young, theold and the hungry, to line the pockets of the mob and some of their local labor allies.

War Demonstrations Hit Several Campuses

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

More than 125 demonstrators were arrested in Fairborn, Ohio, today as they attempted to block two of five gates at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base to protest the resumption of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

In Maryland, Gov. Marvin Mandel said nearly 500 National Guardsmen were called a day early for their regular weekend drill and assembled near the University of Maryland after a third consecutive night of student disorders there.

At a number of the nation's campuses, the renewed bombing has triggered an array of student protests, and some students have called for a strike Friday.

The protest in Ohio delayed many workers at the air base. Traffic was rerouted through the three open gates.

An estimated 500 demonstrators moved to Central Park in Fairborn for a brief rally then marched back to the base.

Earlier Wednesday in College Park, Md., the University of Maryland demonstrators threw rocks, fireworks and firebombs and police fired tear gas during an antiwar protest. Nineteen persons were arrested as students attempted to close U.S. Route 1 bordering the sprawling campus.

More than 250 state and county police and sheriff's deputies backed by an armored car, two Jeeps and a helicopter were brought in to reopen the stretch of highway which demonstrators closed four times.

About 400 to 600 persons hurled rocks and cherrybombs and fired skyrockets at the lawmen while another 2,000 students looked on and cheered, police said. Three Molotov cocktails were thrown at police vehicles. Two policemen suffered minor injuries, neither from the fireworks.

At Columbia University in New York City, eight large windows in the School for International Affairs were broken by a dozen of 1,000 persons who marched through the campus late Wednesday night.

Elsewhere teach-ins, workshops, rallies and class boycotts were planned as students set votes on a coordinated antiwar strike for Friday.

The presidents of nine major Northeastern universities issued a statement deploring the renewed bombing and a win "at almost any cost" attitude in the war. They also rebuked coercive student strikes.

The Maryland clashes followed a campus rock concert at which some students distributed leaflets among the crowd of 2,500 urging a demonstration.

On the way to the highway, the demonstrators broke windows in the administration building and the ROTC armory and tried unsuccessfully to set the armory afire.

The 19 arrests brought to 33 the number seized in two days of clashes over the highway. Several police and students were injured in protests at the 36,000-student school Tuesday.

The window breaking at Columbia came during a looselv organized march that led to the newly constructed School for International Affairs building.

Demonstrators are demanding that the school suspend all work for the Department of Defense.

At the University of Wisconsin in Madison, 2,000 antiwar protesters massed and marched to the state capitol several blocks away.

When Gov. Patrick J. Lucey refused to call a special legislative session to shut off the state's war resources about 20 of the group stalked out of a meeting with the governor.

In Leonardo, N.J., a U.S. Navy ammunition ship was prevented temporarily from docking when antiwar demonstrators in five canoes and a small motorboat blocked the pier.

A Navy spokesman said the miniflotilla left when ordered to do so and there were no arrests.

In Newark, N.J., 13 students from the Rutgers University campus were arrested when they refused police orders to move from their demonstration outside the Prudential Insurance Co.

A spokesman said the demonstration was held there because Prudential "is the most powerful corporation in New Jersey and is representative of the economic psychology that produces a Vietnam."

About 60 antiwar demonstrators carrying wooden crosses and the intestines of a dead sheep disrupted an ROTC class at Iowa State University in Ames. There were no arrests.

In North Hollywood, Calif., police using an ax smashed through a door and arrested 19 antiwar demonstrators who had barricaded themselves for eight hours Wednesday in a Naval Reserve training center.

McGovern Sees Massachusetts Win; Plans All-Out Bid In Ohio

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Predicting victory next Tuesday in Massachusetts and a strong showing the same day in Pennsylvania, Sen. George McGovern says he'll seek an industrial state breakthrough for his presidential candidacy by making an all-out bid in the May 2 Ohio Democratic primary.

The South Dakota senator, seeking to demonstrate appeal to blue collar workers in the big industrial states, made his announcement Wednesday at a news conference in Columbus. He also said he thinks the Vietnam war has replaced the economy as the top campaign issue, at least temporarily.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said while campaigning in Fort Wayne, Ind., for that State's May 2 balloting that he'll back the Democratic nominee "unless they treat me bad at the convention." If they don't treat him right, he indicated he might sit out the campaign, rather than repeat his 1968 third party presidential candidacy.

Both McGovern, who spoke earlier Wednesday in Pittsburgh and Erie, Pa., and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, barnstorming central Pennsylvania, criticized Gov. Milton J. Shapp for his all-out fight in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

In an airport interview in Erie, McGovern said Shapp's job is "to be governor of this state, not to pick the next President."

Humphrey, in a speech at Harrisburg, accused Shapp of machine politics.

Muskie took a day off from his Pennsylvania efforts to shore up his campaign in Ohio and Massachusetts. He visited Cleveland, Youngstown and Toledo, then flew to Boston. He is in a head-to-head test with McGovern for the 102 Massachusetts delegates in that state's primary on Tuesday.

Speaking at a fund-raising dinner in Boston Wednesday night, Muskie said this was a "difficult period" in a campaign hit by a fourth-place showing in Wisconsin's primary, but he said he was in the fight to stay.

The Pennsylvania contest features a popularity poll among Humphrey, Muskie, McGovern, Wallace and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, and contests for 137 of the state's 182 convention delegates in which Humphrey, Muskie and McGovern are the only ones with full slates.

Wallace, who isn't entered in Ohio, said in Fort Wayne he would delay his decision on supporting the Democratic nominee until he sees how the party convention treats him and who the nominee is. But he said "they (the Democrats) can't win without the people that support me and they know it."

McGovern, Wallace and Jackson are scheduled to speak and answer questions today at the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, while Muskie and Humphrey press their Pennsylvania campaigns.

In other developments:

—McGovern picked up the endorsement in Boston of Republican Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, who dropped his own antiwar candidacy after he polled 20 per cent of the GOP primary vote in New Hampshire.

Calling for support of "the leading peace candidates" in the wake of renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, the California Republican said, "I don't think there is any question that Sen. McGovern is the leading peace candidate."

Earlier this month, McCloskey backed New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in the Wisconsin primary, but Lindsay finished sixth and withdrew from the Democratic race.

—The Federal Communications Commission rejected a request by the Democratic National Committee that CBS and NBC be required to provide a free hour of prime television time to respond to programs featuring President Nixon.

Search For Hospital Official Imposter Reaches K.C. Area

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Authorities said Wednesday that an imposter calling himself Dr. Edward Bradley drew more than $2,000 in salary in three weeks he served as administrator and medical director at the 200-bed Molly Stark Hospital near here.

An investigation showed that the same man may have served for one and one-half years as assistant administrator at Saginaw, Mich., Community Hospital, and from Nov. 20, 1970 to July, 1971 as administrator at Monroe, Mich., Mercy Hospital.

A John Doe warrant listing aliases of Wayne Farmer and Edward Bradley was issued by Stark County officials on charges of larceny by trick.

The search for the imposter was being focused in the Independence and Kansas City, Mo., and Detroit areas.

Stark County prosecutor David Dowd said the man had claimed to own nursing homes in Kansas City and Detroit. He said the license plates on the imposter's car was registered to an Elvera Farmer of Independence Mo.

Dowd said he believes Farmer is also a phony name.

The self-styled Dr. Bradley reorganized the staff of 225 and suspended several employes between March 27 when he began and Tuesday when he hastily resigned.

Dowd said a check of Bradley's credentials was started because of personnel problems at the hospital.

Dowd said he had lunch with the imposter Tuesday and added, "I suspected we had a fraud our hands and called for his file.

"The alleged doctor apparently got wind of my suspicions and got out 15 minutes before we got to the hospital to question him," said Dowd.

William Belden, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said the alleged Dr. Bradley had answered an ad placed in an administrator's journal by the hospital board.

Dowd said the imposter used the identification number of the real Dr. Edward Bradley, who was licensed in December, 1960, by the Ohio Medical Licensing Board.

GOP Convention Site May Move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top Republicans say their plans to hold the 1972 GOP National Convention in San Diego are running into more money and more problems than they had anticipated and they may have to switch the meeting site to Miami Beach.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said in New Orleans Wednesday a decision will have to be made soon on whether to try to overcome the difficulties or change the site for the Aug. 21 convention. A party spokesman said a decision may be reached Friday.

John N. Mitchell, President Nixon's campaign manager, was quoted by the Miami Herald as saying the Republicans have "a real problem in San Diego ... I'm not sure we can solve it."

R.L. Herman, vice chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for the party, said: "Our architects and contractors inform us that all of the modifications of the (San Diego Sports) Arena cannot be completed in time unless work can begin sooner than the arena owner presently will permit."

But Peter Graham, owner of the arena, told the San Diego Union: "There's no way, in my mind, that the convention is going to leave San Diego ... Tomorrow or the next day we'll work it out."

"There's politics in this thing," Graham added. "I think they are digging at somebody. I don't understand why they are making me the bugaboo."

A source in Miami Beach agreed there was more to the problem than the arena and a reported shortage of hotel reservations in San Diego.

"They knew those things before they selected California," the source said. "What they couldn't know about then was ITT and the bombing of Haiphong."

He said the controversy over International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.'s pledge to aid the convention if it were held in San Diego has put a stigma on the Southern California town. And President Nixon's decision to renew the bombing of North Vietnam, the source explained, would result in mass demonstrations that could be contained better in Miami Beach, which is linked to the mainland by a series of causeways and draw bridges.

Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall, meanwhile, said the Republicans had contacted him to discuss his city as a possible convention site, oNB "Miami Beach is ready."

Republican officials are meeting in Chicago this week to discuss the San Diego problems.

New Postal Money Order System Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service says it will award contracts within the next few months for forms and equipment to supply a new system of postal money orders.

A new check-style order that the service hopes will be quicker to issue and easier to work with is planned for test use starting Oct. 1, the service said in an announcement today.

"The system will utilize character recognition techniques and modern computers, which will be installed at the Postal Data Center, St. Louis, Mo.," the service said.

Complete nationwide use of the new orders is planned for July 1, 1973.

The Ohio section of Interstate 70 is named for John Glenn, first American astronaut to orbit the earth.

Mrs. Arthur Paul Gaertner

Gaertner-Showmaker

CHARLESTON — On March 25, Miss Karen Avadale Showmaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Showmaker of Charleston, became the bride of Arthur Paul Gaertner, son of the Rev. John F. Gaertner of St. Louis. The Rev. Mr. Gaertner performed the double ring ceremony at the Unity Baptist Church of Benton, assisted by the Rev. Dale Huff.

The church was decorated with two spiral candelabra and sprays of yellow galdioli. On the altar was an open Bible flanked by candelabra entwined with greenery.

Nuptial music was played by Miss Vernita Mayfield of Bridgeton, who accompanied Jack Davis of Wentzville as he sang "O Perfect Love." Candlelighters were Shiela and Leah Davis of Wentzville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight crepe-back satin peau-de-soie designed and fashioned by herself. The bodice of the A-line gown was adorned with imported double scalloped lace and pearls matching that of the long slender sleeves and that of the hemline border of the gown and chapel train. A chapel length veil of English silk illusion fell from a bandeau of pearls and crystal loops centered with sprays of lily of the valley. The bride carried a cascade of white orchids, gardenias, white roses, and English ivy. Her jewelry included a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom, her mother's wedding ring, and golden loop earrings that once belonged to the bride's great-grandmother.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Vickie Showmaker, sister-in-law of the bride, of Alton, Ill., Bridesmaids were Miss Janna Owens of East Prairie and Mrs. Jerri Harrington of St. Louis.

John Gaertner, Jr. of Atlanta, served his brother as bestman; and groomsmen were Harry Lee Showmaker, Jr., brother of the bride, of Alton, Ill. and David Alexander, Jr., of St. Louis. Leland Unterriener of Perryville and Philip Showmaker, brother of the bride, of Charleston were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Charleston Baptist Associational Hall. Guests were served by Mrs. Carla Tilley, Benton; Mrs. Cathie Stricker, Granite City, Ill. and Mrs. Niccole Alexander, St. Louis. Miss Nancy Laster of Benton attended the guest register.

The new Mrs. Gaertner attended Southeast Missouri State College and is a mathematics teacher at the Hazelwood senior high school. Gaertner also attended Southeast Missouri State College and is employed by David Alexander, Inc. in Brentwood.

After a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home in Bridgeton.

JUDAISM BYPASSED

NEW YORK (AP) — Social studies textbooks currently used in U.S. high schools and colleges largely ignore the contribution of Jews and Judaism to modern civilization, says a Stanford University historian.

Dr. Gavin I. Langmuir told an American Jewish Committee meeting here that the omission was directly responsible for the ignorance of most Americans about Judaism and Jewish history.

Ann Landers

Nose Drops Can Become Addictive

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for the benefit of others who don't know they can get hooked on nose drops and nasal sprays.

It started when I was pregnant and having trouble breathing. The doctor suggested a nasal decongestant. He said the directions were on the bottle. To make a long story short, I got hooked. It became embarrassing -- spraying all the time, leaving restaurant tables sometimes three or four times to go spray my nasal passages. If I ran out of decongestant I panicked -- like an addict who needed a fix.

When I told my doctor I was afraid I was addicted he said, "The only way to get off is to quit using it." I tried, but my sinuses swelled up and my eyes became red and puffy. My throat was so sore I could barely swallow. I finally got off the stuff by medicating only one nostril and letting the other one heal. Then I suffered through, cold turkey, with the second nostril.

Please tell people to be careful. Just because a product can be purchased without a prescription doesn't mean it is safe. --- One Who Nose

Dear One: You told them, and in a way I couldn't have. And I might add that you certainly didn't get much help from your doctor. He should have prescribed other medication that would have provided relief and unhooked you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old overweight girl. Last year I went on a diet and lost 38 pounds. I bought three size 8 dresses and four pairs of tight-fitting slacks. I was thrilled to be able to get into them. Then, for some mysterious reason, I began to overeat again. I lost complete control of myself and gained 45 pounds.

My sister who has never seen a fat day in her life has been wearing my size 8 clothes. When I catch her, the battles start. She has plenty of clothes and there is no good reason for her to be sneaking mine.

When I ask my mother to make her stop she says, "You are acting like a spoiled brat. Lose weight and wear them yourself, then your sister won't be tempted."

Is it fair? Am I behaving like a spoiled brat? Please give me some advice. --- Plump But Not Pleasing Anyone.

Dear Plump: I don't like to tell a teen-ager her mom is off base, but yours is. She should insist that your sister leave your clothes along. This problem, however, is small compared with 45 pounds of excess baggage at age 17. I urge you to get a complete physical checkup. If there is no organic reason fo; your obesity, get on a doctor's diet and stay on it. I recommend counseling also. It sounds as if your unresolved emotional problems are compelling you to overeat.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I haven't been married very long and we need some advice from a person who has had some experience with bosses and business -- especially executives.

Jimmy went to work for this firm 15 months ago. Yesterday he received an unexpected bonus. Of course we were thrilled. The money means a great deal, but the fact that he was rewarded for his work means even more. What we want to know is this: Would it be all right if we wrote a thank-you letter to the boss or would it be out of line? --- Cloud 19

Dear 19; A letter of appreciation is never out of line. The letter should be from your husband, however, not from you. And keep it simple. Excessive gushiness can be embarrassing.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Joint Pact Accepted In Lilbourn

LILBOURN — City Council members accepted a joint municipal agreement Monday for consideration of putting into effect, on a regional basis, a program of adoption and enforcement of uniform codes relating to housing, fire prevention, building, plumbing and electrical construction.

Ron Yersak, planning director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, reported that in addition to Lilbourn, Hayti, Steele, New Madrid, Portageville, Cardwell, East Prairie, Parma, and Senath have accepted the joint municipal agreement for consideration.

These comunities were chosen by the Regional Commission because of their completion of a comprehensive plan and certified workable program. Yersak said the Department of Housing and Urban Development require the completion of these two programs in order to participate in the joint municipal agreement.

The joint municipal agreement states that the participating communities should agree to establish a joint committee consisting of one representative from each municipality to adopt uniform rules and regulations. These committee members will perform the matters pertaining to the establishment and enforcement of the uniform ordinances.

To the Editor of
The Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri.

I want you to know how much I enjoyed reading the Daily Standard received 2 weeks ago. You are certainly moving in the right direction. Congratulations' We sold Otto's papers before his passing and a good thing. Since, or rather recently we are pleased to know how Missouri papers are given encouragement to write about progress help Missouri towns are receiving which was badly needed. I received the Sikeston paper last year and now I am aware of the help the Missouri papers are receiving, by way of Urban Renewal which by the way is helping Independence, Mo. of which Fairmount Missouri being incorporated with Independence is getting help also. The lights are already in and many other fine plans are under way, especailly the new Highway which helps or will help Fairmount no end. These things take time to accomplish and Independence also put out a paper with all of their plans and it should really put Indep on the map as it will be a great historic city, it being the birthplace of Harry Truman a great President, who is to take his place in this coming election. The Indep. Examiner showed his home and many other homes of historic value. Also their many plans for beautification. With property that Otto had, all this will help. The Inter City is putting out a fine paper.

We haere now in Phoenix, are experiencing what the papers call a heat wave, has been in the 90's for over a week and with the promise of a hot summer also a dry one. We don't like it. This reminds me that I will take off for Pierce City, Mo. where my daughter lives and is the librarian there. She wrote that also Joplin was being or is getting aid by way of Urban Renewal that is only forty miles, I think from Pierce City.

Congratulations again on a fine paper and hope you are enjoying good health. I took it over to the Fred Smiths who are wintering here, away from the cold weather of Minnesota. Their son works on the Arizona Republican, is Associate Editor, we met them on many NEA conventions. They are to return to Minnesota in April.

With continued success with the Daily Standard, I am

Sincerely, Mrs. O. P. Higgins
Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. Charles Blanton, Editor
The Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri 63801

Dear Mr. Blanton,

I want you to know that I support President Nixon's bomb attack on Hanoi and Haiphong. I hope he keeps this up until Hanoi is ready to talk peace. I think this should have been done 10 years ago instead of sending in American ground combat troops.

I hope the American War Prisoners in that area could see or hear the attack. I am sure it brought a smile on their faces and gave them a good feeling to know the U. S. Still has some fighting spirit.

Senator Muskie's Senate resolution, "Calling for an immediate end to all American military activity, land, sea, and air against the territory of North Vietnam", shows how immature he really is.

I am happy Representative Bill Burlison didn't jump the gun and endorse Senator Muskie the way Gov. Hearnes, Senator Symington and Senator Eagleton did.

Governor George Wallace had strong support in this area last election. I am hoping that the people in this area give him their support in his bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

I hope you see fit to print this letter in the "Mail Box" of the Daily Standard.

Sincerely,
Jerry L. Freshour
Sikeston, Missouri

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

SOLVING THE JUVENILE CRIME PROBLEM

The juvenile crime problem is big enough and serious enough that it requires everyone's help -- public and private agencies, individuals in a wide range of professions, and all levels of government. But the federal contribution to this effort over the past few years has been half- hearted, badly administered, and clearly unsuccessful.

In the face of statistics that tell us that 50% of the serious crime in this country is being committed by people under age seventeen, the major crime-fighting program at the federal level -- the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) -- is allocating only 15% of its funds to juvenile-related projects.

Why? They say that an agency of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has primary responsbility for juvenile delinquency. But the HEW people who administer the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control Act see their role as a limited one. They say that LEAA has all the crime- fighting money.

In short, the federal effort to stem juvenile crime seems to have fallen through a crack somewhere between two federal agencies. Juvenile delinquency is but a stepchild to each of the agencies that has some responsibility for it. It is the principal concern of none. Somewhere in the federal government we need a loud, clear voice in behalf of a strong, consistent, persistent effort to curb juvenile crime.

A New Office

That is why I am co-sponsoring legislation which would create a new National Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention in the Executive Office of the President.

This proposal would leave existing programs where they are now -- but the new White House office would be the spokesman and coordinator for these efforts, setting priorities and objectives for the delinquency programs, supervising and evaluating the efforts of the other agencies, and making recommendations to the President.

This is precisely the approach that Congress has taken with respect to the drug abuse problem, creating in the Executive Office a Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention. Some of us in the Senate think that the problems of juvenile delinquency are of a similar magnitude and require a similar response.

But even if we are successful in triggering more effective funding by the federal government, we all know that our real hope lies with the state and local agencies which spend it.

New Ideas

Realistically, we have to admit that our failure to curb juvenile crime has not been simply a failure to get the cash. We need more money -- but we need new ideas, too. We can't just keep building bigger institutions and putting more delinquents away for awhile.

In many ways, the failure of juvenile corrections is just a part of our general system of "corrections that don't correct," in the words of Chief Justice Warren Burger.

As a general rule, our correctional facilities serve primarily to turn out better criminals. They provide inmates with little other than subsistence needs, contacts with other crime- oriented people, and further instruction in anti- social behavior.

I believe that it is important to experiment with projects such as group homes, halfway houses, foster- care programs, and other community- based facilities which bring young offenders closer to their families and bring them back into society a step at a time.

We must always keep our sights on our twin goals in dealing with juvenile crime: To bring the crime rate down and to salvage young lives before they are irretrievably lost to criminal activity. We do neither out of charity. We can afford neither to waste young lives nor to let them grow into criminals who will spend their years preying on society.

Hearnes Says Conflict Basis Of U.S. System

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Monday described the American form of government as "a system of conflict, where representatives of the people come together with different ideas to engage in argument and debates—winding up in most instances with some form of compromise.

"That is the basis for our system of government, in real life as well as in the textbooks. Yet, many adults seem unable to grasp that theory. They express amazement that the House and Senate could become deadlocked on issues of great importance. They fil to understand, or perhaps fail to remember, that such deadlocks should be expected under a form of government wh ich has no dictators."

The governor gave his view of government in a speech prepared for the Rotary Club Student Government Day.

"I hope you will stay a step ahedd of some of your elders and keep the conflicts-of-power theory in mind as you observe governmental struggles and debates," he said. "It is very seldom that our system brings rapid agreement into being for a solution which your or I, as individuals, might consider to be the obvious course of action."

Check your gas flame.

It may be trying to tell you something.

If the burners on your range are clean and properly adjusted, the gas should burn with a clear blue flame and a sharply defined inner cone. If there are traces of yellow, the burner holes may have become clogged with food particles and should be cleaned. If the yellow persists, burner adjustment may be necessary.

Keeping your gas range operating efficiently improves its performance and saves gas—which saves you money. After all, why waste a good thing?

SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU

Wouldn't life be more happy
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That Folk bother to recall

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folk we meet would say
I know something good about you
And treat you just that way

If you think some praise is due him
Speak kindly of him today
for he can not read his tombstone
when life has passed away

An unkind word will cut so deep
No balm can neal the wound
A kind word will drive dark clouds away
And bring the sunshine soon

A kind word to the elderly
Will make a lasting friend
Will brighten life from day to day
Until the life shall end.

What's The Law

County Must Pay For Walk Launch

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

When Hootman's wife decided she needed some groceries, Hootman decided he needed some exercise. Consequently, instead of motoring down to the store in his car, he hopped onto his son's two-wheeler and peddled off to the store with great athletic enthusiasm.

As he rode along a county sidewalk, however, he hit a bump in the sidewalk and was launched skyward out of his seat. Upon landing on his head, Hootman was a groggy man and sued the county for his injuries, which included a broken leg.

"I was the first spaceman ever launched from a bicycle seat," he complained to the judge, "and it was the county's fault. A county has a duty to maintain its sidewalks in a resonably safe condition."

"That may be true," conceded a county attorney, "but there's an ordinance that specifically prohibits bycycling on sidewalks. Since Hootman broke his leg while breaking the law, everything is balanced out and he's not entitled to collect for his injuries.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the county pay for the consequences of Hootman's unexpected space trip?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the ordinance was designed to protect pedestrians from being struck by bicycles on the sidewalk and was not intended to protect the county sidewalk. Therefore, concluded the judge, Hootman's violation of the sidewalk ordinance was no bar to his collecting for his injuries. (Based upon a 1961 California Supreme Court Decision)

Literally on Their Backs,

but no one is about to ask her to get off. It's all part of the choreography of an ancient Korean dance in which a girl holding a buoy and a basket moves gracefully on the shoulders of the chorus. The traditional dance of the women pearl divers, it was performed during South Korea's annual folk arts festival at Chonju City. In another segment, below, dancers represent divers seeking warmth from a bonfire on the beach after their work.

Senate Quits Session In Huff

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A disgusted Senate Wednesday night quit and walked out of a night session in indignation.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, refused to bring to a vote two bills — one calling for state fair housing law and another to provide scholarships for needy college students, whether enrolled in private or public institutions.

Howard said he wanted to delay action on the bills until more senators were present. At least 29 of the 34 were present for a night session called expressly to give sponsors of Senate bills stalled earlier in the Senate Budget Control Committee a last opportunity to pass their bills.

When Howard refused to call for a vote on the Fair Housing Bill—to ban at the state level discrimination against color, creed or national origin in the sale or rental of dwellings — Sen. Richard M. Webster, RCarthage, called it "a damned imposition to keep us here."

The Senate's unprecedented action came after two bills were passed and sent to the House.

One would increase state aid to junior college districts from $320 to $420 a year for full time students and the other would increase retirement benefits for employes of the State Highway Department and Highway Patrol.

Neither of the bills is considered to have much chance in the waning days of the current session, the legislature must stop work on bills on April 30.

Earlier, the Senate passed and sent to the governor bills to:

Authorize the Division of Health to inspect homes caring for the mentally retarded.

Raise marriage license fees from $1 to $3 and filing fees from 50-cents to $1.

Enable water districts to merge, and specifying how bonded indebtedness would be resolved.

Sent back to the House with amendments were bills to:

Relax regulations on oil drilling and give industry spokesmen a voice on the governing board.

Remove the requirement that the superintendent of state schools and hospitals for the mentally retarded be physicians and have five years administrative experience.

Carlton Blanks Birds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Revenge is sweet, but winning is the name of the game.

The source for that statement is left-hander Steve Carlton, who fired a three-hitter at his former St. Louis teammates Wednesday night, pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 1-0 squeaker over Bob Gibson, the Cardinals' ace.

"The incentive is to win," Carlton said after facing his former teammates for the first time. "That's my incentive, not beating any particular team. Sure, it's nice to come back and beat the team that traded you and beat a pitcher like Gibby. But it's just as nice beating any team."

Although Carlton played down the revenge angle, fellow pitcher Joe Hoerner let everyone in on Carlton's true feelings. "That," he said, flashing a sly grin, "is the last team in the world Steve would like to shut out." If you say so, Joe.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh rallied to beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2, San Diego edged San Francisco 4-3, Los Angeles trimmed Atlanta 40 and Houston downed Cincinnati 7-5. The New York Mets were rained out in Montreal.

Carlton, a 20-game winner for St. Louis last season, was traded to the Phillies late in February in exchange for 17game winner Rick Wise. The southpaw had been holding out for more money and Gussie Busch, the Cards' owner, reportedly ordered General Manager Bing Devine to deal him away.

The Phillies got their only run off Gibson in the sixth inning on a triple by Willie Montanez and Deron Johnson's single. Despite the defeat, the 36-year-old St. Louis ace fanned five batters and climbed past Bob Feller and Warren Spahn into fourth place on the all-time strikeout list.

The Pirates beat the Cubs with four runs in the eighth inning, highlighted by Bob Robertson's two-run homer.

Pittsburgh added two more runs before the inning was over on singles by Manny Sanguillen, Al Oliver and Rennie Stennett, with Oliver scoring as Stennett was thrown out attempting to steal second.

John Jeter's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth off Juan Marichal turned things around for San Diego. The Padres were losing 3-2 before reaching the San Francisco ace.

The game-winning shot followed a single by Derrel Thomas and wiped out earlier heroics by the Giants' Ken Henderson. The teams were tied 2-2 until the eighth inning, when Henderson hit a tie-breaking single.

Don Sutton hurled Los Angeles past Atlanta with a two-hitter—Rico Carty's second-inning double and a bloop single in the third by Marty Perez. The Dodgers gave Sutton the only run he needed when Maury Wills opened the game with a triple—his first hit of the season after 18 fruitless at-bats— and Bill Buckner's infield out. Manny Mota singled two more across

Martin Slugs Rooter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Martin has stopped fighting with his players. He's now fighting with the fans.

The quick-fisted Detroit Tiger manager, who made headlines three seasons ago by knocking out pitcher Dave Boswell, mixed it up with a man on the street Wednesday night.

The fight, which ended in "no decision", came after the Tigers had been decked by the Baltimore Orioles, 5-2.

"I wasn't mad about losing or mad about anything," explained Martin, whose playing and managing days have been studded with battles. "But this guy was blocking my way to the team bus. He was swearing and I told him to get away. I pushed him. He called me a name, dove at me and knocked me against the bus."

With several Detroit players and a group of newsmen watching, the antagonists thudded to the hard ground with Martin's fists swirling. The brawl lasted about a minute before members of the Detroit group pried the two apart.

The fan identified himself as Jack Sears, 25, and said he has been a red-hot Detroit rooter from Pontiac, Mich., who has been living in Baltimore for 15 years.

"All I said was, 'You guys better win tomorrow night,'" said Sears. "He hit me first and I grabbed his legs when we went down because I'm not a fighter."

Martin and the Tigers weren't the only ones in action Wednesday night. Six other American League games were played as the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 21; the New York Yankees trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2; the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 3-1; the Minnesota Twins crushed the California Angels 12-3 and the Oakland A's took a bNNB FROM THE Kansas City Royals, 40 and 3-1.

Before the fireworks outside Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, the Orioles exploded for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Tigers. Boog Powell's opposite-field double to left knocked ineafg5 tie-breaking run and Paul Blair added two insurance runs with a single that chased Detroit ace Mickey Lolich.

An error by second baseman Lenny Randle in the ninth inning enabled Carlos May to score the winning run as Chicago beat Texas.

"It was sure good to win my first game with a new club' ' said Bahnsen, who was acquired during the winter from the New York Yankees. "And I especially was happy to get by the first few innings. I usually get hurt in the early going because it always takes me a while to get in the groove."

Light-hitting Gene Michael lashed a three-run triple in the fifth inning to give the Yankees the runs they needed.

"He hit the ball over my head—that's all there was to it," said outfielder Joe Lahoud of Michael's triple. "I was playing in about four steps shorter than usual. But then, where would you play Gene Michael?"

Michael, known more for his glove than bat, lined the ball over Lahoud's outstretched glove and into the left field corner. It was the shortstop's first triple in nearly two seasons.

Gaylord Perry gained his first American League victory when he pitched Cleveland over Boston.

Turkey Price High

IRONTON, Mo. (AP) — A preseason turkey hunter got little mercy this week from law enforcement authorities in Iron County, about 75 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Missouri conservation agents said they caught Jess Tyndal, 54, of Ironton, about 6 a.m. Tuesday on a farm road west of town. They said Tyndal had shot a 24-pound Tom turkey.

Tyndal pleaded guilty to a charge of hunting turkeys out of season. He was fined $1 per ounce—a total of $384.

Magistrate Judge Fred Atwood said he fined Tyndal $1 per ounce because "this was the first offender we've caught and we wanted to make an example of him."

Celtics Battle Back

Dave Cowens had that hungry 13ai He gobbled up rebounds. He gobbled up loose balls. He gobbled up points. Most important, he helped gobble up the New York Knicks.

The Boston Celtics' center did everything in his team's important 115-109 victory over the Knicks in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference finals Wednesday night. The Celtics, down 2-0 in the best-of-seven series, needed the victory and Cowens provided the spark.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana defeated Utah 116-111 in the Western Division final playoff series. Utah leads the series, 2-1.

New York entertains Boston Friday night, and Milwaukee is home against Los Angeles Saturday afternoon in the NBA's Western Conference series, which the Lakers lead 3-2.

Utah is at Indiana on Saturday night, while Virginia plays the New York Nets at Uniondale, N.Y., on Monday night in game three of their ABA Eastern Division series. The Squires lead 2-0.

Jo Jo White scored 29 points and John Havlicek had 26 but it was Cowens who made the difference for the Celtics.

Cowens got 16 rebounds and scored 23 points, including some timely baskets down the stretch when the Knicks had pulled into the lead.

"Cowens stood out," said Red Holzman, Knicks' coach. "He played very well, his best game against us, for sure."

The Celtics had a 55-47 lead at halftime but the Knicks rallied behind Bill Bradley's 14 points in the third quarter. Midway through the final period Boston got hot as Cowens and White tied the game with consecutive field goals, then Cowens put the Celtics ahead 99-96 with a hook shot and a free throw.

Bradley finished with 29 points, Walt Frazier with 28 and Earl Monroe 17 for the Knicks.

Indiana went ahead of Utah in the third quarter but needed four free throws by Freddie Lewis in the final 29 seconds to wrap up the game.

Roger Brown scored 13 of his 30 points in the third period. Indiana built its lead to 12 points in the final period but Utah fought back behind Willie Wise, who finished with 19 points, and Ron Boone, who had 18. Wise and Jimmy Jones ran into foul trouble and sat out long portions of the game.

Lewis had 15 points, while Mel Daniels had 16 points and led both teams

PH & T Registration Open

NEW YORK -- Despite the delay in the opening of the 1972 Major League Baseball season, the Official Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit & Throw Competition (PH&T) is proceeding on schedule. Registration opened April 15. More than a half- million boys aged 9 through 12 throughout the country are expected to sign up before registration ends June 4.

The nationwide program, sponsored by Major League Baseball with Phillips Petroleum Company, is in its third year. In the first two years more than 700,000 youngsters participated.

Competition gets underway this year with local contests June 10-15. Winners will advance through local, district and division competitions until eight boys, selected on the basis of scores at the division level, win the right to compete for four national championships (one in each age group) at baseball's All-Star Game in Atlanta, Ga. on July 25.

Eligible boys may register at participating Phillips 66 stations and at many other authorized locations. In New York City, Washington, D. C. and Detroit, Mich., for example, registration and local and district competitions are coordinated by municipal parks and recreation departments or the city youth services agency.

Most contests will take place at public playgrounds, while district contests will be either in public playgrounds or minor league ballparks. All division competitions will be in major league parks.

Baseball Try-Outs

George Butler, Little League baseball commissioner, announced tryouts for boys 9 through 12, who haven't played Little League baseball in Sikeston.

Butler asked those, who meet the qualifications and who will be nine before August 1, to bring their glove and attend the tryouts Sunday at 1 p.m. at the high school fieldhouse.

Dexter Atheletes ToSEMO

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Seven Southeast Missouri football players have indicated they will join Coach Tom Thrower's troops this fall at Southeast Missouri State College.

Three of the seven are from Dexter, where Thrower coached outstanding teams for several years. Two are from Cape Central and one each is from Perryville, and Fredericktown.

Dexter recruits are Jerry Christian, a 5-10, 185- pound linebacker and honor student; Terry Givson, a 6-0, 175- pound running back; and Danny Smith, 1 6-2, 210 - pound defensive end. Both Gibson and Smith were named to the all- conference and all- district teams.

To join the Indians from Cape Central are Mike Dunaway, a 6-0, 180- pound center who was named to the all- state team, and Josh Kellett, a 6-2, 230- pound tackle.

Other southeast Missouri high schoolers to choose Southeast Missouri State to continue their football"careers" are Phillip Bueckman of perryville, a 5-11, 200- pound tackle who can go both ways; and Frank Starkey of Fredericktown, a 5-10, 185- pound linebacker or fullback. Bueckman and Starkey also made all- conference and all- district teams.

Thrower, whose returnees from last fall's 7-3-1 season are now in the midst of limited spring drills, must find replacements for eight members of the 1971 defensive team and five members of the offensive unit.

Pitching Tough

DEERING -- Larry Hart of the Gideon Bulldogs was on the losing end of a fine pitching performance by Bob Rikard of the Delta C-7 Chargers Wednesday afternoon. The Chargers edged the Bulldogs, 1-0, in the baseball game.

Rikard gave up only two hits and Hart allowed only three scattered hits but an error and a wild pitch spelled defeat for the hard throwing GHS hurler.

Hart struck out the first seven men he faced and eight of the first nine.

The only run came in the fourth as Blankenship reached base on a single and moved to third when the ball got through an outfielder's legs. He raced home when Hart hurled a wild pitch.

The Bulldogs are 3-2 for the season.

Chaffee Blows Lead

CHAFFEE Paul Schermann and John Volkerding supplied the power and three Cape Girardeau Central hurlers furnished the pitching as the Tigers edged the Red Devils 6-4 Wednesday afternoon in a baseball game.

Schermann connected for a grand slam homer to give the Central Tigers a 5-4 lead. Volkerding clubbed a long home run in the seventh to cap off the scoring for Cape and give the Tigers the victory.

Apollonauts Descend To Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Apollo 16 astronauts separated their lunar ship Orion from the command ship today and prepared to descend from orbit to explore where man has never been—a mountain region of the moon.

John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. cast off on their lunar adventure three hours after they donned their moon suits and climbed into Orion, the moon landing module, to thoroughly check communications, fuel, electrical and other systems.

Eager to ,start, they boarded the ship 40 minutes early.

Mission Control emphasized there was no concern about the health of the men and that the move was merely precautionary.

Capsule communicator Don Peterson told them medical analysis indicated "your potassium levels are running a little low and we recommended you drink more orange juice. You've got a long day ahead, so we recommend you eat more food."

A potassium-laced diet was ordered for Apollo 16 after the Apollo 15 moon walkers suffered episodes of irregular heartbeats last summer.

John W. Young and Charles M. Duke Jr. were set for an afternoon drop to a rugged, undulating plateau high in the Descartes Mountains where they seek proof of ancient volcanic activity and hope to find the source of original lunar rock.

Touchdown of the landing ship Orion was scheduled for 2:41 p.m. Bootheel Time, leaving Thomas K. Mattingly II alone in lunar orbit.

As the landing neared, Young expressed some concern about zipping up Duke's moon suit. He had trouble during a dress rehearsal Tuesday and asked Wednesday night if he could use pliers.

Mission Control objected and expressed the opinion that the problem was associated with weightlessness and would clear up in the one-sixth gravity on the moon.

The astronauts got a preview of what would be ahead when they passed over the landing site shortly after firing into lunar orbit Wednesday.

"The crater Descartes stands out much bigger than you'd expect," Duke reported. "The area has a much blockier, jumbled appearance than in the photographs."

"It's fantastic. Boy, is that rough," added Young.

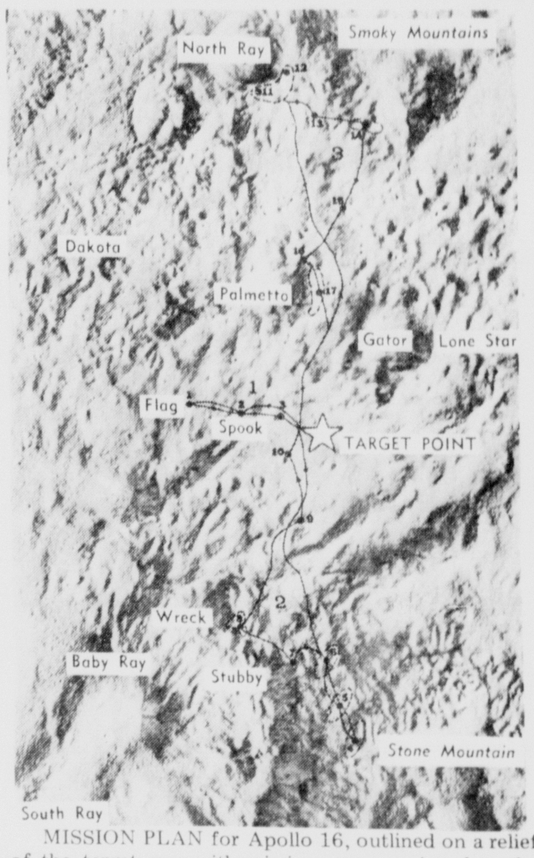
Geologists at Mission Control were heartened that the astronauts would find the volcanic evidence when Duke commented: "It looks very much like a big clinkery cinder field but on a much larger scale. Big rounded surface clinkers."

On earth, cinder cones and clinkers are associated with volcanism.

Young and Duke planned to spend a record 73 hours on the mountain ringed Descartes plateau, driving an electric powered moon car on three excursions to probe mountains and craters. Their first trip starts at 7:18 p.m. EST.

Mattingly will be busy in lunar orbit, operating a $10-million array of cameras intended to map chemically and photographically the strip of moon over which he passes in the command ship Casper.

The stage was set for the ninth and 10th Americans to step on the moon when the astronauts triggered the big engine of the command ship at 3:23 p.m. Wednesday and swept into an initial orbit ranging from 67 to 196 miles above the surface.



MISSION PLAN for Apollo 16, outlined on a relief of the target area with mission names assigned to the most prominent surface features, calls for extensive exploration due north and south of the touchdown point. Numbers indicate stops and experiment activity in sequence.

George E. Wright, Coroner Gene Nunnelee and Trooper Norris Grissom pull the body of Virgil Talley of Bell City from his overturned automobile, five miles north of Sikeston, last night. The Talley vehicle struck the rear of an auto driven by George Miller, crossed the center line and overturned on the driver. Nunnelee pronounced Talley dead at the scene.

Heavy Fighting Erupts Again Today At An Loc

SAIGON (AP) -- Heavy fighting erupted anew today on two sides of An Loc, 60 miles north of Saigon, after a 1,600- round enemy artillery bombardment of the war-torn provincial capital. Six North Vietnamese tanks were reported destroyed.

U. S. spokesmen disclosed meanwhile that ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet battled North Vietnamese MIG planes, torpedo boats and shore batteries this week in some of the heaviest sea action of the Indochina war.

The destroyer Higbee and the 7th Fleet flagship, the cruiser Oklahoma City, were damaged. Four Americans were wounded. A MIG jet that bombed the Higbee was shot down by a missile, the Navy said, and it was believed that three North Vietnamese torpedo boats were sunk and a fourth was damaged.

The allied commands also reported that the North Vietnamese offensive, now in its 22nd day, pushed Vietnamese casualties on both sides last week to their highest levels since the 1968 Tet offensive. The South Vietnamese command reported 1,002 of its troops and 7,117 enemy killed; the U. S. Command reported 12 American battlefield deaths for the second week in a row, the biggest total in six months.

The South Vietnamese command said that its paratroopers and rangers were locked in heavy fighting at midway half a mile north and half a mile east of An Loc.

Twenty U.S. B52s dropped 500 tons of explosives on three sides of the city, trying to break up the enemy concentrations besieging the city.

Field reports said North Vietnamese troops spearheaded by tanks renewed the attack from the north and from the southeast.

One battle 2½ miles southeast of the city around a paratrooper position known as Hill 169 was described as "close combat," and casualties were believed to be heavy on both sides.

Boy Runs Into Truck

Mark Reinbott, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rienbott, 443 N. Ingram, was seriously injured at 8 a.m. today when he ran into the rear of a passing truck while playing in front of 407 North Ingram.

The driver of the truck, Paul Samuel Talbert, 422 William, told police the boy was playing by a utility pole. Talbert said another child was chasing Reinbott, who ran into the street and struck the right rear of the truck.

The boy was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital and transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis with serious head injuries and a large cut.

Bell City Man Killed

Virgil R. Talley, 31, of Bell City was killed at 7:40 p.m. uesterday when he lost control of his automobile two miles north of Sikeston on highway 61.

Talley was southbound at a high rate of speed when he attempted to pass a car driven by George Miller, 38, of Sikeston,the state patrol reported. Oncoming traffic forced him back on to the right side of the road where he struck the rear of the Miller car.

Talley's car skidded off the left side of the road, overturned and landed on its top. Talley was thrown out and pinned under his car.

Miller's car was knocked off the right side of the road onto the shoulder. He was not injured.

In another accident, Harold Dillard Rogers, 57, of route four, Sikeston, received a concussion and cuts on the head at 8 p.m. yesterday when his truck missed a curve on a highway north of Bell City. The location of the wreck was not determined because the truck had been moved, the patrol said.

Rogers was brought to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, where he is reported in good condition.

Pat Lea, chairman of the Bootheel Economic Development Council and Regional Planning Commission, said the amount of funds available do not permit a funding award at this time. The Rev. Wallace Ellinger, chairman of the Bootheel Comprehensive Health Council, reported that the council will continue with early development of the organizational process for health planning.

Change In Venue Asked For Kirk

POPLAR BLUFF — Butler County authorities went to court today to seek a change of venue in the robbery case of William Timothy Kirk of Sikeston.

No reason was given for the request. If granted, the case will probably be heard in Ripley county.

Kirk is charged with the Oct. 13, 1971, robbery of Poplar Bluff Jewelry store owner Lewis C. Fuller and his wife at their home. Several thousand dollars worth of valuables were taken including a diamond ring valued at $10,000.

Kirk and another man, Wert L. Akin of Memphis were arrested by Dexter police after the robbery.

Kirk is charged with the July 13, 1971 slaying of James Allen Roose of Sikeston on Ables road south of Miner.

Since his arrest on murder charges Kirk has been accused of selling a stolen vehicle in Memphis.

The Robbery case will be heard before Kirk faces the murder charges in Scott County.

Kidnap Report A Hoax

BENTON — The story told to police Monday by W.C. Bourland of Olive Branch, Miss., that he was forced to drive to Scott City by a hitchhiker he picked up at White Haven, Tenn., today was called a hoax.

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today that Bourland apparently had family problems and needed an excuse to explain why he was so far from home.

Dennis said he doesn't know if charges will be filed against Bourland since the incident involves Missouri, Arkansas, Tennesse and Mississippi law enforcement agencies. The decision to prosecute will be up to Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gilmore.

Bourland told police that he picked up the hitchhiker at White Haven and then was forced to drive to Scott City. He told police he thought the man had a gun. He also had the man robbed him of $20 in Arkansas.

Police and sheriff's offices were searching for the man when Bourland admitted he had been lying.

Harper Resigns As Lions President

Noel Harper has resigned as president of the Lions Club because he will be away from Sikeston for three months.

He will be succeeded by Robert Scott, an insurance man.

Harper, an employe of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, has been assigned to the Houston office of the utility for three months.

This was the second advance as a Lions club officer this year for Scott. Earlier he was elevated to first vice president when Harper became president.

Harper succeeded Ira Keller, who resigned because of health problems.

The club heard a plea for federal aid for the nation's railroads yesterday noon at its meeting at the Travelodge motel.

The volume of freight in the United States is growing rapidly, so rapidly the American transportation industry may not be able to meet the demand without the help of a bill pending in Congress, according to Gene Randall, an assistant purchasing agent for the Frisco Railroad in Springfield.

Randall spoke to the Lions Club yesterday.

The bill, called the Surface Transportation Act of 1971, is receiving support from the carrier industry, Randall said. The trucking, water transportation, and railroad industries have set aside their differences to push for passage of the act, he added.

The act would establish a revenue financing division within the U. S. Department of the Treasury – modeled along the lines of the old Reconstruction Finance Corporation – which would make up to $5 billion in loans and guarantees available for transportation companies. Today, Randall said, there is no one place where these firms can go to get large loans.

Robert Scott

The act would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to develop rate standards that are fair and adaquate for all carriers.

The law would prohibit discriminatory tax practices by states. States often tax transportation firms at a higher rate than other businesses, he said.

The bill would require that five per cent of all federal highway funds be used by states to improve rail road crossings. States now have the power to do so but usually spend the money elsewhere, Randall said. He added, railroads would maintain the crossings after warning signals are installed.

SUPER-SCINETIFIC TRANSPO 72 SHOW

It is difficult to believe that automobiles and airplanes, so commonplace today, were not invented until around the turn of this century, and that jet travel was unknown before 1930. And it is even more difficult to believe that the day of the super-scientific, Buck Rogers - Dick Tracy style people-movers is just around the corner. But you had better believe it, says U. S. Secretary of Transportation, John A. Volpe; and to hammer home the point, the U. S. Department of Transportation is sponsoring, from May 27 to June 4, 1972, at the Dulles International Airport near Washington, D.C., a mammoth International Transportation Exposition called TRANSPO 72.

TRANSPO 72 will be a major effort to bridge the gap between the present and the future, and to focus attention on the hard solutions we need to meet the problems concurrent with our rapidly growing, and changing, transportation. Explains Secretary Volpe: "We want to emphasize the need for totally integrated systems in our future transportation."

Surely few areas of our economy are as vital as our ability to transport people and things. We depend upon transportation for the food we eat, the clothes we wear, our shelter, recreation and health. But, existing methods are strained beyond capacity. We are plagued with over-crowding, delays, pollution, inefficiency, and an enormous toll of life and limb. What we now have is no longer adequate to meet the demands of the present, mush less the future.

It is for that purpose that Secretary Volpe has marshalled over 300 industrial exhibitors from all over the world to display, at TRANSPO 72, the very latest advances in land, sea, air and space transportation. It is expected that almost a million people will attend the nine-day, open-to- the-public exposition where they will see trains that skim along a thin cushion of air; advanced - concept magnetic suspension vehicles, propelled by pollution-free "linear" motors; prototype vehicles that will zip around a demonstration highway completely controlled (both steering and speed) by electronic sensors; periscope-equipped automobiles designed to allow occupants to survive crashes at speeds up to 75 miles an hour, and literally hundreds of other transportation machines.

In addition, TRANSPO 72 will feature performances by the U. S. Air Force Thunderbirds, U. S. Navy Blue Angels, the U. S. Army Golden Knights parachute jump team, and other spectacular air shows.

Every American has an interest in the success of TRANSPO 72, because every American has a stake in our future. Those who visit this first-of-a-kind exposition will find much to reward, interest, and entertain every member of the family. You would do well to include TRANSPO 72 in your travel plans.

ROMNEY AND SCANDAL

George Romney has emerged as a sympathetic character despite the housing scandal rocking his Department of Housing and Urban Development. Perhaps because he has been forthright enough to admit the most federal low-income housing policies have failed, Secretary Romney comes on as a federal official dedicated to telling the truth.

In any case, the Ripon Society will present the former Michigan governor with its award as "Republican of the Year" at a dinner Saturday, April 22, in Detroit. The society cited Romney for his "open communities policy to encourage low-income housing in the suburbs, where the jobs are" and said this "will have a long-term positive effect unmatched by any other domestic policy in this administration."

In a speech before the Detroit Economic Club March 27, Romney described how his agency set out in 1969 to meet the ambitious housing goals set forth by the Housing and urban Development Act of 1968. "In retrospect," he declared, "it was a mistake -- in part -- not to realize the FHA's lack of preparation for its new role in central cities and their exposure to speculators and fast-buck artists." Romney said he was "angered and determined to eliminate shoddy workmanship, and forms of 'legal' profiteering that take advantage of technicalities to defraud the home buyer and the taxpaying public."

Romney has a tough road ahead. A House Government Operations Committee found speculators making huge profits -- as much as 60 to 70 per cent of three months -- in housing rehabilitation programs in Detroit. The House Banking and Currency Committee has been told that up to half of all housing subsidy money in Boston goes to middlemen, not to the poor for whom it was intended. Within a few years the government will be holding 240,000 housing units in mortgage default. The housing scandal is so broad and deep, in fact, that George Romney's candor may have been the only thing to save the Nixon administration from disastrous political repercussions.

PROTEST

Antiwar groups, suffering from a decline in public support, are counting on the current Communist offensive in South Viet Nam and stepped-up American air warfare to pep up demonstrations set for New York City and Los Angeles on Saturday, April 22. "It's a whole new ball game now," commented Carl Finamore of the National Peace Action Coalition. It is sponsoring the demonstrations and calling for an end to the bombing in Indochina and an immediate withdrawal of American military forces from Southeast Asia.

The demonstrations are part of an international day of protest endorsed last February in Paris by the World Peace Assembly. Demonstrations also are planned in Belgium, Canada, Denmark, England, France, Ireland, Lebanon, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Scotland, Sweden and Switzerland. The marches have already received the endorsements of many labor, student and political leaders, including Reps. Shirley Chisholm (D N.Y.), Bella S. Abzug (D N.Y.), Ronald V. Dellums (D Calif.), Sen. Vance Hartke (D Ind.), and presidential aspirants George McGovern, Hubert H. Humphrey, Eugene McCarthy and Linda Jenness, nominee of the Social Workers Party.

April 22 will be the second major event in a six-week spring offensive against the war. On April 1, 10,000 protestors gathered in Harrisburg, Pa., in support of the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six co-defendants in a conspiracy trial. A series of local actions have been set for the first week in May centering on U. S. corporations manufacturing arms.

Coordinators of the April 22 demonstrations admit that the turnout may fall short of similar marches a year ago that attracted 200,000 protesters in Washington, D.C., and 156,000 in San Francisco. Many supporters of the antiwar movement now are focusing their energies on political activities. Public sentiment that the war is winding down also has reduced participation. Division over strategy within the antiwar movement is reflected in the failure of the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice to endorse the new demonstrations. Some of its members feel that the scope of demonstrations is too narrow. They want to link the antiwar movement with protests over poverty, racism, and political repression. Others believe that mass demonstrations are no longer effective either in building the movement or in putting pressure on the government to end the war.

Mr. J. For many, reverence for the law is no longer a sacred principle. The attributes so vital to impartial courtroom procedure are scorned, and court authority is tested ... If the judiciary is to keep the faith of the American people, then it must deal promptly and decisively with vituperative outbursts and disruptive tactics in court. Justice without strength will soon become no justice at all."

NEW YORK (AP) — Take 11,000 chickens.

Skin, quarter, cut, slice, bone, halve, dice, cube, pound or grind. Add stuffings, seasonings, flavorings, sauces, fruits, vegetables, nuts, soft drinks, hard drinks, gelatine, cheese, soup, milk, eggs, molasses, cereal or ice cream. Boil, broil, barbecue, bake, roast, simmer, saute, fry or grill.

There's a chicken recipe for every taste among the 11,000 submitted in the National Broiler Council's chicken cooking contest. The nation's chicken cooks, male and female, young and old, have included among the ingredients in their entries almost every edible item in a well-stocked grocery.

Nostalgic for the days of your youth, the Saturday movie matinee, the county fair? Circus chicken may be just your dish, with a popcorn-peanut coating flavored with lemonade.

Something a bit more sophisticated, perhaps? There's chicken a la mode—with ice cream. If you like to think pink, try chicken topped with strawberry ice cream mixed with rose wine.

In fact, eating the dinnertime cocktail is in vogue in chickenmunching circles this year. Alcoholic beverages—from beer to champagne—figure prominently in the recipes as cooking liquid or in sauce.

Those who prefer to keep their chickens sober can try banana caramel sauce. And chickens cooked in tea, coffee, cola, sauerkraut juice, cranberry juice, orange juice, sour cream or honey are guaranteed not to give fowl fanciers a hangover.

The stuffing could be rhubarb, chopped hot dogs or, for those who like the unusual, a combination of fish sticks, cream cheese and lemon gelatine.

Eight home economists screened the thousands of recipes in a process that will eventually lead to a cookoff among the finalists in 50 states and the District of Columbia. In addition to a few cases of queasiness from the stranger combinations panel members got some laughs.

"Take one whole friar," wrote one contestant, possibly under the assumption that ingredients could be acquired from religious orders as well as grocery orders.

Every part of the chicken except the peep has its champions. Aside from such delicacies as breast of chicken fixed in hundreds of ways, there's gizzard goulash, heart kabobs, wings Chinese style, crown roast of drumsticks, recipes calling for feet, and neck skins used for sausage casings. Plus 14-carrot chicken soup.

Despite the many off-beat recipes, one seasoning didn't get a mention. Nobody suggested putting pot in the chicken instead of putting chicken in the pot.

A MAYBE—NOT ON MAIL HIKE

The best news we have heard to date from the nine-month old United States Postal Service is that its rates may not go up again in September after all.

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen says the service is "exploring every possibility" for cutting costs to avert another hike. Mechanization is being stepped up, because 85 per cent of the outgo is for labor - 700,000 employees.

Large business mailers, mainly direct-mail advertisers and publishers of newspapers and magazines, were hit hardest by the postage hike of last May, which also jumped the price of posting a first-class letter from 6 to 8 cents.

Mr. Klassen says if higher rates are required, first-class mail users will bear most of the load, probably through hiking the 8-cent stamp to 9 or 10 cents. The Postmaster General's explanation was unfortunate: "To the housewife mailing six or eight bills and letters a month, that's insignificant. I'm more concerned with the big mail users."

The sentiment will make a reverse hit with housewives and their husbands. They have more votes than corporate executives, and Mr. Klassen admits that new postal rate increases in September would have a "fairly significant" impact on the November elections. He is right about that. — Miami (Fla.) Herald.

US SHOULD PROTECT FUTURE OCEAN RIGHTS BUSINESS GROUP SAYS

"Oceans: The New Frontier" is the title of a new booklet published by the National Association of Manufacturers.

It tells the story of the great importance of ocean resources for the nation's future use and for national security. It also urges the rejection of the proposed treaty that would internationalize ocean waters beyond 200 meters in depth.

The booklet was published by the Natural Resources Management and Conservation COmmittee under the chairmanship of William L. Naumann, executive vice president, Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria, Ill., and a copy may be obtained without charge by writing to the NAM, 277 Park Avenue., N.Y., N.Y.10017.

PREVIEW OF THE FUTURE

East of San Francisco, California, in the Sierra Nevada range, there is an example of multiple use of natural resources on private lands that shows the pattern of adjustment taking place between man and the environment. In an attractive road-map type folder, the nation's largest investor-owned electric power company invites the public to be its guest at its public campgrounds, many of which are in the vicinity of reservoirs that provide hundreds of thousands of kilowatts of power to the communities and farms of California.

A dozen company- maintained camp and picnic grounds are described in detail. The public can enjoy some of the most beautiful mountain country of the West. In addition to the recreational facilities, there are also resorts and lodges where supplies and accommodations are offered. It is significant that in the midst of a recreational paradise lies a man-developed energy supply for one of the heaviest energy-consuming regions of the U. S. Neither intrudes on the other. Here is combined both recreation and productive taxpaying enterprise under conditions compatible with nature and the environment

The power company folder is more than a travel map for vacationers. It is a preview of the future relationship between people and the land.

FOAM RUBBER MEETS NEW FIRE STANDARDS

Carpet underlays installed in Federal Housing Administration projects after September 1, 1971 must meet new flammability requirements. The latex foam rubber industry has developed new fire-retardant latex compounds that meet or exceed the new federal requirements. To meet FHA standards, a carpet underlay must pass the "pill test" in which an aspirin-sized chemical tablet is placed on the underlay, ignited, and allowed to burn out. The foam rubber must not continue to burn or smolder after the pill is burned up, and the burned area cannot extend more than three inches in any direction.

MAKING FOOD SCARCE AND EXPENSIVE

One thing everyone has to do is to eat. All of us are fortunate that our farmers and ranchers have been able to increase the supply of food sufficiently in recent weeks to take some of the pressure off the rising cost of groceries. Because we were on the precipice of federal control of food production, we were on the verge, also, of extensive food shortages.

Every experience with attempting to lower food prices by artificial controls everywhere in the world results in food shortages. It happened to the United States during and long after World War II. More than a year after the Japanese signed armistice papers before General MacArthur on the battleship USS Missouri, "controlled" meat prices were rising out of sight and still demand outraced meat supplies.

Price controls and rationing both were only mildly successful during wartime and failed miserable when the leftists tried to retain them after the war "to protect the consumer." Every communist government enforces price controls and the people of every communist country suffer from inadequate food supplies, especially essential proteins.

Farmers and ranchers, among our very best citizens, have been under fire recently because of rising food prices. But farm food prices have gone up only 7% during the same period that all wages went up 240%, salaries of government employees went up 330% and dividends climbed 200%. The good people who provide our farm products obviously cannot be blamed. Inflation and increased costs, including wages, between the farm and the kitchen, are the culprits. HLH.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — President Nixon ordered the bombing of the North Vietnamese heartland as much to impress Moscow as to deter Hanoi.

He wanted the Kremlin to understand his quest for peace doesn't mean he can be "pushed around."

In his private conversations, he has declared fiercely that he wants to lower tensions around the world and win re-election in November, but that he won't abandon America's Commitments to achieve these goals.

Nixon has expressed admiration for the late President John F. Kennedy for facing down the Russians during the Cuban missile crisis, and he is prepared to do it again if another confrontation should develop.

Secret intelligence reports suggest that Hanoi expected the anti-war pressures in the United States to keep American air-sea power at bay after the assault across the demilitarized zone. But Hanoi under-estimated Richard Nixon, who never hesitated to strike massive air blows against North Vietnam.

Earlier, he had made secret overtures through both Moscow and Peking to bring pressure on the North Vietnamese to call off the offensive. Chinese Premier Chou En-lai reportedly tried to persuade the North Vietnamese not to risk a military showdown, but they went ahead with the offensive in spite of the advice from Peking.

SOVIET ROLE

The Russians, on the other hand, refused to discourage the attack. Intelligence reports claim that the Kremlin, while it didn't go so far as to encourage Hanoi to invade South Vietnam, had advance knowledge of the invasion plans. The attackers also used Soviet-made tanks, artillery and anti-aircraft missiles.

The President believes the Kremlin could have prevented the invasions by threatening to cut off military supplies. He intends to demonstrate his resolve, therefore, by shutting off the supplies himself, if possible, with a blizzard of bombs.

The Central Intelligence Agency has warned all along that bombing will never stop the needed supplies from reaching communist forces in South Vietnam. General Creighton Abrams, the U.S. Commander in Vietnam, has agreed that the supplies for the present offensive were stockpiled in advance.

But he has warned that Hanoi has the power to continue a prolonged offensive. Twelve of North Vietnam's regular divisions are now fighting in the south. Another division is reported on the way to the front. This leaves only two training divisions at home.

Once the lines become stabilized, Abrams has suggested, the Vietnam War may become a protracted, Korea-style conflict. He recommended the bombing of supply depots around Hanoi and Haiphong, therefore, to disrupt enemy logistics and to reduce the supplies that will reach front-line troops in the months ahead.

MASSIVE AIR SUPPORT

When President Nixon first took over as commander -in-chief the Joints Chiefs advised him that the South Vietnamese Army by itself would be unable to withstand an all-out North Vietnamese assault "in the foreseeable future." This assessment has now been changed, but the Joint Chiefs have warned it will take massive American air support to blunt the North Vietnamese offensive.

In private, meanwhile, the President has repeated again and again that he doesn't intend to be "pushed around" -- not in Vietnam, the Middle East nor anywhere else.

Once, when Jewish leaders were questioning his willingness to support Israel, Nixon asked an aide incredulously: "Can these people really believe that I could sit in this chair and let anything happen to Israel?"

The most competent White House sources tell us emphatically that Richard Nixon would like to avoid a confrontation with the Kremlin but that he won't back down from one.

JUMPING JOE

We tried unsuccessfully to reach our columnist writing colleague, Joe Alsop, prior to our recent report that he was among the bigshot passengers chauffered around Washington by Pentagon cars in apparent violation of military regulations.

Alsop, who is in Southeast Asia, has now wired us the following response: "I have never used military transport that was not equally available to other reporters of comparable decrepitude.

"In Vietnam," the telegram adds, "I have also followed the strict rule of refusing any assistance going beyond what was given Scotty Reston when he made his trip there."

Reston is the distinguished columnist and vice president of the New York Times, whose views on the war have contrasted with Alsop's hawkish stance.

Footnote: We also reported that during a recent NATO military junket in the United States, cars rented by the Pentagon for the visitors' use in Washington were to be kept on rental while they spent five days traveling elsewhere. After we began looking into the matter and had sent out our column for publication, the plans were abruptly changed and the cars were returned to the rental agency. They were then rented again when the visitors returned to Washington.

Inside Labor

Rackets Rocket Meat Price: mobs' threat to labor peace seen forcing retailers into 20 per cent tribute

NEW YORK — From the tip of Long Island to the islands of Hawaii, local and federal grand juries are probing unions whose regional leaders have been called in and queried about links with sadistic Mafia underbosses, with strange disappearances of vacation, welfare and pension funds, with sabotage, with attempting to poison restaurant foods, with beating other union members and officials, with forcing suppliers' trucks off the roads, with use of union monies in mob real estate manipulations, with shooting bullets into an employer's desk to terrorize him, and with involvement with the goriest violence.

These local union leaders purr contentedly in the unreported gray areas while their national union chiefs are absorbed by national and international politics and conferences.

Some of the local labor caliphs have been indicted. Some haven't. Scandal willfollow scandal when hey reach the courts.

Just wait for the ripening of the New York City grand jury meat racket investigation by rackets bureau chief Al Scotti, colleague of famed District Attorney Frank Hogan who has carried on the crusading tradition of the late Thomas E. Dewey for several decades.

They've been looking into the link between skyrocketing meat prices in supermarkets here and the impact of the mob. And they believe they've found the evidence to prove there is a simple racket:

The Mafia combine goes to some meat wholesalers. The hoods tell the meat distributors to jack up prices. If asked why -- and not too often are such visitors questioned -- the businessmen are told not too often are such visitors questioned -- the businessmen are told not to worry. The retailers will pay the additional cost. Why? Because the combine consists of, according to informed sources, the mob and some unions.

These unions could make it difficult in this vast metropolitan area for the retailer to operate. There just might be a strike, a stoppage, a spoilage -- no labor peace. So don't worry about the retailers, is the word.

The search is into possible violations of the anti-extortion and conspiracy laws. And into whether the additional money charged by the wholesaler and paid by a frightened retailer, whose store is vulnerable , is split between the crime crowd and their fronts in the unions.

In a sense this is what insiders call "the A & P pattern." Some years ago, according to Senate testimoney records, the big grocery chain was pressured by a combination of men linked with the crowd of the late Mafia boss of bosses Vito Genovese and a New Jersey local of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters whose president and some other officials have since been indicted on charges of stealing some $32,000 from Local 404 covering New Jersey and New York from its East Orange, N.J., headquarters.

The Manhattan District Attorney's office here reportedly believes that this type of operation could well be the pattern in other metropolitan areas around the nation. And a federal racket-smashing source says, why not? -- there's as much imagination among the Mafia families in the Midwest and West as there is in the New York metropolitan area.

Ofthis, the U.S. Senate Commerce Committee investigators appear to be certain. It is this group, under the chairmanship of Warren Magnuson, D.-Wash., which went into the mob's effort to push what has been called an inferior detergent. It was produced by a small chemical company and the mob-labor combination pressured the A & P chain. Coincidentally, with that sales drive there were some 16 fires in the chain's stores, the federal authorities point out. Not to mention much blood spilling.

Now the Magnuson committee probers see the same pattern nation-wide in foodstuffs -- meat included. Stolen meat. Rotten meat.

Had it not been for the Presidential primary campaigns and the turbulent international news, the committee would have held its public hearings weeks ago. Now they are scheduled for the third week in May.

Then the story behind the terror tax -- the mob's own levy on foodstuffs, be it meat, seafood, canned goods, even bread and milk--may be told. If not, then the story will be pushed by Montana's Congressman John Melcher. As a member of the House Subcommittee on Livestock and Grains of the House Agriculture Committee, Melcher has gotten some strange figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

There is a huge differential between meat prices in the Northeast complex -- Boston New York -- New Jersey, Philadelphia, and Baltimore -- compared, said he, even with a metropolis such as Chicago. Sometimes the difference on foodstuffs is 20 per cent. He has asked both the General Accounting Office and the Justice Dept. to probe the inexplicable higher prices in the racket-dominated Northeast.

So to mix a metaphor, food is being taken out of the mouths of the young, theold and the hungry, to line the pockets of the mob and some of their local labor allies.

War Demonstrations Hit Several Campuses

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

More than 125 demonstrators were arrested in Fairborn, Ohio, today as they attempted to block two of five gates at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base to protest the resumption of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

In Maryland, Gov. Marvin Mandel said nearly 500 National Guardsmen were called a day early for their regular weekend drill and assembled near the University of Maryland after a third consecutive night of student disorders there.

At a number of the nation's campuses, the renewed bombing has triggered an array of student protests, and some students have called for a strike Friday.

The protest in Ohio delayed many workers at the air base. Traffic was rerouted through the three open gates.

An estimated 500 demonstrators moved to Central Park in Fairborn for a brief rally then marched back to the base.

Earlier Wednesday in College Park, Md., the University of Maryland demonstrators threw rocks, fireworks and firebombs and police fired tear gas during an antiwar protest. Nineteen persons were arrested as students attempted to close U.S. Route 1 bordering the sprawling campus.

More than 250 state and county police and sheriff's deputies backed by an armored car, two Jeeps and a helicopter were brought in to reopen the stretch of highway which demonstrators closed four times.

About 400 to 600 persons hurled rocks and cherrybombs and fired skyrockets at the lawmen while another 2,000 students looked on and cheered, police said. Three Molotov cocktails were thrown at police vehicles. Two policemen suffered minor injuries, neither from the fireworks.

At Columbia University in New York City, eight large windows in the School for International Affairs were broken by a dozen of 1,000 persons who marched through the campus late Wednesday night.

Elsewhere teach-ins, workshops, rallies and class boycotts were planned as students set votes on a coordinated antiwar strike for Friday.

The presidents of nine major Northeastern universities issued a statement deploring the renewed bombing and a win "at almost any cost" attitude in the war. They also rebuked coercive student strikes.

The Maryland clashes followed a campus rock concert at which some students distributed leaflets among the crowd of 2,500 urging a demonstration.

On the way to the highway, the demonstrators broke windows in the administration building and the ROTC armory and tried unsuccessfully to set the armory afire.

The 19 arrests brought to 33 the number seized in two days of clashes over the highway. Several police and students were injured in protests at the 36,000-student school Tuesday.

The window breaking at Columbia came during a loosely organized march that led to the newly constructed School for International Affairs building.

Demonstrators are demanding that the school suspend all work for the Department of Defense.

At the University of Wisconsin in Madison, 2,000 antiwar protesters massed and marched to the state capitol several blocks away.

When Gov. Patrick J. Lucey refused to call a special legislative session to shut off the state's war resources about 20 of the group stalked out of a meeting with the governor.

In Leonardo, N.J., a U.S. Navy ammunition ship was prevented temporarily from docking when antiwar demonstrators in five canoes and a small motorboat blocked the pier.

A Navy spokesman said the minifiotilla left when ordered to do so and there were no arrests.

In Newark, N.J., 13 students from the Rutgers University campus were arrested when they refused police orders to move from their demonstration outside the Prudential Insurance Co.

A spokesman said the demonstration was held there because Prudential "is the most powerful corporation in New Jersey and is representative of the economic psychology that produces a Vietnam."

About 60 antiwar demonstrators carrying wooden crosses and the intestines of a dead sheep disrupted an ROTC class at Iowa State University in Ames. There were no arrests.

In North Hollywood, Calif., police using an ax smashed through a door and arrested 19 antiwar demonstrators who had barricaded themselves for eight hours Wednesday in a Naval Reserve training center.

McGovern Sees Massachusetts Win; Plans All-Out Bid In Ohio

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

Predicting victory next Tuesday in Massachusetts and a strong showing the same day in Pennsylvania, Sen. George McGovern says he'll seek an industrial state breakthrough for his presidential candidacy by making an all-out bid in the May 2 Ohio Democratic primary.

The South Dakota senator, seeking to demonstrate appeal to blue collar workers in the big industrial states, made his announcement Wednesday at a news conference in Columbus. He also said he thinks the Vietnam war has replaced the economy as the top campaign issue, at least temporarily.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama said while campaigning in Fort Wayne, Ind., for that State's May 2 balloting that he'll back the Democratic nominee "unless they treat me bad at the convention." If they don't treat him right, he indicated he might sit out the campaign, rather than repeat his 1968 third party presidential candidacy.

Both McGovern, who spoke earlier Wednesday in Pittsburgh and Erie, Pa., and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, barnstorming central Pennsylvania, criticized Gov. Milton J. Shapp for his all-out fight in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

In an airport interview in Erie, McGovern said Shapp's job is "to be governor of this state, not to pick the next President."

Humphrey, in a speech at Harrisburg, accused Shapp of machine politics.

Muskie took a day off from his Pennsylvania efforts to shore up his campaign in Ohio and Massachusetts. He visited Cleveland, Youngstown and Toledo, then flew to Boston. He is in a head-to-head test with McGovern for the 102 Massachusetts delegates in that state's primary on Tuesday.

Speaking at a fund-raising dinner in Boston Wednesday night, Muskie said this was a "difficult period" in a campaign hit by a fourth-place showing in Wisconsin's primary, but he said he was in the fight to stay.

The Pennsylvania contest features a popularity poll among Humphrey, Muskie, McGovern, Wallace and Sen. Henry M. Jackson, and contests for 137 of the state's 182 convention delegates in which Humphrey, Muskie and McGovern are the only ones with full slates.

Wallace, who isn't entered in Ohio, said in Fort Wayne he would delay his decision on supporting the Democratic nominee until he sees how the party convention treats him and who the nominee is. But he said "they (the Democrats) can't win without the people that support me and they know it."

McGovern, Wallace and Jackson are scheduled to speak and answer questions today at the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, while Muskie and Humphrey press their Pennsylvania campaigns.

In other developments:

—McGovern picked up the endorsement in Boston of Republican Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, who dropped his own antiwar candidacy after he polled 20 per cent of the GOP primary vote in New Hampshire.

Calling for support of "the leading peace candidates" in the wake of renewed U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, the California Republican said, "I don't think there is any question that Sen. McGovern is the leading peace candidate."

Earlier this month, McCloskey backed New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in the Wisconsin primary, but Lindsay finished sixth and withdrew from the Democratic race.

—The Federal Communications Commission rejected a request by the Democratic National Committee that CBS and NBC be required to provide a free hour of prime television time to respond to programs featuring President Nixon.

Search For Hospital Official Imposter Reaches K.C. Area

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Authorities said Wednesday that an imposter calling himself Dr. Edward Bradley drew more than $2,000 in salary in three weeks he served as administrator and medical director at the 200-bed Molly Stark Hospital near here.

An investigation showed that the same man may have served for one and one-half years as assistant administrator at Saginaw, Mich., Community Hospital, and from Nov. 20, 1970 to July, 1971 as administrator at Monroe, Mich., Mercy Hospital.

A John Doe warrant listing aliases of Wayne Farmer and Edward Bradley was issued by Stark County officials on charges of larceny by trick.

The search for the imposter was being focused in the Independence and Kansas City, Mo., and Detroit areas.

Stark County prosecutor David Dowd said the man had claimed to own nursing homes in Kansas City and Detroit. He said the license plates on the imposter's car was registered to an Elvera Farmer of Independence Mo.

Dowd said he believes Farmer is also a phony name.

The self-styled Dr. Bradley reorganized the staff of 225 and suspended several employes between March 27 when he began and Tuesday when he hastily resigned.

Dowd said a check of Bradley's credentials was started because of personnel problems at the hospital.

Dowd said he had lunch with the imposter Tuesday and added, "I suspected we had a fraud our hands and called for his file.

"The alleged doctor apparently got wind of my suspicions and got out 15 minutes before we got to the hospital to question him," said Dowd.

William Belden, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said the alleged Dr. Bradley had answered an ad placed in an administrator's journal by the hospital board.

Dowd said the imposter used the identification number of the real Dr. Edward Bradley, who was licensed in December, 1960, by the Ohio Medical Licensing Board.

GOP Convention Site May Move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top Republicans say their plans to hold the 1972 GOP National Convention in San Diego are running into more money and more problems than they had anticipated and they may have to switch the meeting site to Miami Beach.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said in New Orleans Wednesday a decision will have to be made soon on whether to try to overcome the difficulties or change the site for the Aug. 21 convention. A party spokesman said a decision may be reached Friday.

John N. Mitchell, President Nixon's campaign manager, was quoted by the Miami Herald as saying the Republicans have "a real problem in San Diego ... I'm not sure we can solve it."

R.L. Herman, vice chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for the party, said: "Our architects and contractors inform us that all of the modifications of the (San Diego Sports) Arena cannot be completed in time unless work can begin sooner than the arena owner presently will permit."

But Peter Graham, owner of the arena, told the San Diego Union: "There's no way, in my mind, that the convention is going to leave San Diego ... Tomorrow or the next day we'll work it out."

"There's politics in this thing," Graham added. "I think they are digging at somebody. I don't understand why they are making me the bugaboo."

A source in Miami Beach agreed there was more to the problem than the arena and a reported shortage of hotel reservations in San Diego.

"They knew those things before they selected California," the source said. "What they couldn't know about then was ITT and the bombing of Haiphong."

He said the controversy over International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.'s pledge to aid the convention if it were held in San Diego has put a stigma on the Southern California town. And President Nixon's decision to renew the bombing of North Vietnam, the source explained, would result in mass demonstrations that could be contained better in Miami Beach, which is linked to the mainland by a series of causeways and draw bridges.

Miami Beach Mayor Chuck Hall, meanwhile, said the Republicans had contacted him to discuss his city as a possible convention site, oNB "Miami Beach is ready."

Republican officials are meeting in Chicago this week to discuss the San Diego problems.

New Postal Money Order System Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service says it will award contracts within the next few months for forms and equipment to supply a new system of postal money orders.

A new check-style order that the service hopes will be quicker to issue and easier to work with is planned for test use starting Oct. 1, the service said in an announcement today.

"The system will utilize character recognition techniques and modern computers, which will be installed at the Postal Data Center, St. Louis, Mo.," the service said.

Complete nationwide use of the new orders is planned for July 1, 1973.

The Ohio section of Interstate 70 is named for John Glenn, first American astronaut to orbit the earth.

Mrs. Arthur Paul Gaertner

Gaertner-Showmaker

CHARLESTON — On March 25, Miss Karen Avadale Showmaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Showmaker of Charleston, became the bride of Arthur Paul Gaertner, son of the Rev. John F. Gaertner of St. Louis. The Rev. Mr. Gaertner performed the double ring ceremony at the Unity Baptist Church of Benton, assisted by the Rev. Dale Huff.

The church was decorated with two spiral candelabra and sprays of yellow galdioli. On the altar was an open Bible flanked by candelabra entwined with greenery.

Nuptial music was played by Miss Vernita Mayfield of Bridgeton, who accompanied Jack Davis of Wentzville as he sang "O Perfect Love." Candlelighters were Shiela and Leah Davis of Wentzville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight crepe-back satin peau-de-soie designed and fashioned by herself. The bodice of the A-line gown was adorned with imported double scalloped lace and pearls matching that of the long slender sleeves and that of the hemline border of the gown and chapel train. A chapel length veil of English silk illusion fell from a bandeau of pearls and crystal loops centered with sprays of lily of the valley. The bride carried a cascade of white orchids, gardenias, white roses, and English ivy. Her jewelry included a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom, her mother's wedding ring, and golden loop earrings that once belonged to the bride's great-grandmother.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Vickie Showmaker, sister-in-law of the bride, of Alton, Ill., Bridesmaids were Miss Janna Owens of East Prairie and Mrs. Jerri Harrington of St. Louis.

John Gaertner, Jr. of Atlanta, served his brother as bestman; and groomsmen were Harry Lee Showmaker, Jr., brother of the bride, of Alton, Ill. and David Alexander, Jr., of St. Louis. Leland Unterriener of Perryville and Philip Showmaker, brother of the bride, of Charleston were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Charleston Baptist Associational Hall. Guests were served by Mrs. Carla Tilley, Benton; Mrs. Cathie Stricker, Granite City, Ill. and Mrs. Niccole Alexander, St. Louis. Miss Nancy Laster of Benton attended the guest register.

The new Mrs. Gaertner attended Southeast Missouri State College and is a mathematics teacher at the Hazelwood senior high school. Gaertner also attended Southeast Missouri State College and is employed by David Alexander, Inc. in Brentwood.

After a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home in Bridgeton.

NEW YORK (AP) — Social studies textbooks currently used in U.S. high schools and colleges largely ignore the contribution of Jews and Judaism to modern civilization, says a Stanford University historian.

Dr. Gavin I. Langmuir told an American Jewish Committee meeting here that the omission was directly responsible for the ignorance of most Americans about Judaism and Jewish history.

Ann Landers

Nose Drops Can Become Addictive

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter for the benefit of others who don't know they can get hooked on nose drops and nasal sprays.

It started when I was pregnant and having trouble breathing. The doctor suggested a nasal decongestant. He said the directions were on the bottle. To make a long story short, I got hooked. It became embarrassing -- spraying all the time, leaving restaurant tables sometimes three or four times to go spray my nasal passages. If I ran out of decongestant I panicked -- like an addict who needed a fix.

When I told my doctor I was afraid I was addicted he said, "The only way to get off is to quit using it." I tried, but my sinuses swelled up and my eyes became red and puffy. My throat was so sore I could barely swallow. I finally got off the stuff by medicating only one nostril and letting the other one heal. Then I suffered through, cold turkey, with the second nostril.

Please tell people to be careful. Just because a product can be purchased without a prescription doesn't mean it is safe. --- One Who Nose

Dear One: You told them, and in a way I couldn't have. And I might add that you certainly didn't get much help from your doctor. He should have prescribed other medication that would have provided relief and unhooked you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old overweight girl. Last year I went on a diet and lost 38 pounds. I bought three size 8 dresses and four pairs of tight-fitting slacks. I was thrilled to be able to get into them. Then, for some mysterious reason, I began to overeat again. I lost complete control of myself and gained 45 pounds.

My sister who has never seen a fat day in her life has been wearing my size 8 clothes. When I catch her, the battles start. She has plenty of clothes and there is no good reason for her to be sneaking mine.

When I ask my mother to make her stop she says, "You are acting like a spoiled brat. Lose weight and wear them yourself, then your sister won't be tempted."

Is it fair? Am I behaving like a spoiled brat? Please give me some advice. --- Plump But Not Pleasing Anyone.

Dear Plump: I don't like to tell a teen-ager her mom is off base, but yours is. She should insist that your sister leave your clothes along. This problem, however, is small compared with 45 pounds of excess baggage at age 17. I urge you to get a complete physical checkup. If there is no organic reason fo; your obesity, get on a doctor's diet and stay on it. I recommend counseling also. It sounds as if your unresolved emotional problems are compelling you to overeat.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I haven't been married very long and we need some advice from a person who has had some experience with bosses and business -- especially executives.

Jimmy went to work for this firm 15 months ago. Yesterday he received an unexpected bonus. Of course we were thrilled. The money means a great deal, but the fact that he was rewarded for his work means even more. What we want to know is this: Would it be all right if we wrote a thank-you letter to the boss or would it be out of line? --- Cloud 19

Dear 19; A letter of appreciation is never out of line. The letter should be from your husband, however, not from you. And keep it simple. Excessive gushiness can be embarrassing.

Are drugs O.K. if you learn how to control them? Can they be of help? The answers are in Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope On Drugs." For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16 cents postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Joint Pact Accepted In Lilbourn

LILBOURN — City Council members accepted a joint municipal agreement Monday for consideration of putting into effect, on a regional basis, a program of adoption and enforcement of uniform codes relating to housing, fire prevention, building, plumbing and electrical construction.

Ron Yersak, planning director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, reported that in addition to Lilbourn, Hayti, Steele, New Madrid, Portageville, Cardwell, East Prairie, Parma, and Senath have accepted the joint municipal agreement for consideration.

These comunities were chosen by the Regional Commission because of their completion of a comprehensive plan and certified workable program. Yersak said the Department of Housing and Urban Development require the completion of these two programs in order to participate in the joint municipal agreement.

The joint municipal agreement states that the participating communities should agree to establish a joint committee consisting of one representative from each municipality to adopt uniform rules and regulations. These committee members will perform the matters pertaining to the establishment and enforcement of the uniform ordinances.

I want you to know how much I enjoyed reading the Daily Standard received 2 weeks ago. You are certainly moving in the right direction. Congratulations' We sold Otto's papers before his passing and a good thing. Since, or rather recently we are pleased to know how Missouri papers are given encouragement to write about progress help Missouri towns are receiving which was badly needed. I received the Sikeston paper last year and now I am aware of the help the Missouri papers are receiving, by way of Urban Renewal which by the way is helping Independence, Mo. of which Fairmount Missouri being incorporated with Independence is getting help also. The lights are already in and many other fine plans are under way, especailly the new Highway which helps or will help Fairmount no end. These things take time to accomplish and Independence also put out a paper with all of their plans and it should really put Indep on the map as it will be a great historic city, it being the birthplace of Harry Truman a great President, who is to take his place in this coming election. The Indep. Examiner showed his home and many other homes of historic value. Also their many plans for beautification. With property that Otto had, all this will help. The Inter City is putting out a fine paper.

We haere now in Phoenix, are experiencing what the papers call a heat wave, has been in the 90's for over a week and with the promise of a hot summer also a dry one. We don't like it. This reminds me that I will take off for Pierce City, Mo. where my daughter lives and is the librarian there. She wrote that also Joplin was being or is getting aid by way of Urban Renewal that is only forty miles, I think from Pierce City.

Congratulations again on a fine paper and hope you are enjoying good health. I took it over to the Fred Smiths who are wintering here, away from the cold weather of Minnesota. Their son works on the Arizona Republican, is Associate Editor, we met them on many NEA conventions. They are to return to Minnesota in April.

With continued success with the Daily Standard, I am

Mr. Charles Blanton, Editor
The Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri 63801

Dear Mr. Blanton,

I want you to know that I support President Nixon's bomb attack on Hanoi and Haiphong. I hope he keeps this up until Hanoi is ready to talk peace. I think this should have been done 10 years ago instead of sending in American ground combat troops.

I hope the American War Prisoners in that area could see or hear the attack. I am sure it brought a smile on their faces and gave them a good feeling to know the U. S. Still has some fighting spirit.

Senator Muskie's Senate resolution, "Calling for an immediate end to all American military activity, land, sea, and air against the territory of North Vietnam", shows how immature he really is.

I am happy Representative Bill Burlison didn't jump the gun and endorse Senator Muskie the way Gov. Hearnes, Senator Symington and Senator Eagleton did.

Governor George Wallace had strong support in this area last election. I am hoping that the people in this area give him their support in his bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

I hope you see fit to print this letter in the "Mail Box" of the Daily Standard.

Sincerely,
Jerry L. Freshour
Sikeston, Missouri

Frankly Speaking

By Thomas F. Eagleton

SOLVING THE JUVENILE CRIME PROBLEM

The juvenile crime problem is big enough and serious enough that it requires everyone's help -- public and private agencies, individuals in a wide range of professions, and all levels of government. But the federal contribution to this effort over the past few years has been half- hearted, badly administered, and clearly unsuccessful.

In the face of statistics that tell us that 50% of the serious crime in this country is being committed by people under age seventeen, the major crime-fighting program at the federal level -- the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) -- is allocating only 15% of its funds to juvenile-related projects.

Why? They say that an agency of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has primary responsbility for juvenile delinquency. But the HEW people who administer the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control Act see their role as a limited one. They say that LEAA has all the crime- fighting money.

In short, the federal effort to stem juvenile crime seems to have fallen through a crack somewhere between two federal agencies. Juvenile delinquency is but a stepchild to each of the agencies that has some responsibility for it. It is the principal concern of none. Somewhere in the federal government we need a loud, clear voice in behalf of a strong, consistent, persistent effort to curb juvenile crime.

A New Office

That is why I am co-sponsoring legislation which would create a new National Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention in the Executive Office of the President.

This proposal would leave existing programs where they are now -- but the new White House office would be the spokesman and coordinator for these efforts, setting priorities and objectives for the delinquency programs, supervising and evaluating the efforts of the other agencies, and making recommendations to the President.

This is precisely the approach that Congress has taken with respect to the drug abuse problem, creating in the Executive Office a Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention. Some of us in the Senate think that the problems of juvenile delinquency are of a similar magnitude and require a similar response.

But even if we are successful in triggering more effective funding by the federal government, we all know that our real hope lies with the state and local agencies which spend it.

New Ideas

Realistically, we have to admit that our failure to curb juvenile crime has not been simply a failure to get the cash. We need more money -- but we need new ideas, too. We can't just keep building bigger institutions and putting more delinquents away for awhile.

In many ways, the failure of juvenile corrections is just a part of our general system of "corrections that don't correct," in the words of Chief Justice Warren Burger.

As a general rule, our correctional facilities serve primarily to turn out better criminals. They provide inmates with little other than subsistence needs, contacts with other crime- oriented people, and further instruction in anti- social behavior.

I believe that it is important to experiment with projects such as group homes, halfway houses, foster- care programs, and other community- based facilities which bring young offenders closer to their families and bring them back into society a step at a time.

We must always keep our sights on our twin goals in dealing with juvenile crime: To bring the crime rate down and to salvage young lives before they are irretrievably lost to criminal activity. We do neither out of charity. We can afford neither to waste young lives nor to let them grow into criminals who will spend their years preying on society.

Hearnes Says Conflict Basis Of U.S. System

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Monday described the American form of government as "a system of conflict, where representatives of the people come together with different ideas to engage in argument and debates—winding up in most instances with some form of compromise.

"That is the basis for our system of government, in real life as well as in the textbooks. Yet, many adults seem unable to grasp that theory. They express amazement that the House and Senate could become deadlocked on issues of great importance. They fil to understand, or perhaps fail to remember, that such deadlocks should be expected under a form of government wh ich has no dictators."

The governor gave his view of government in a speech prepared for the Rotary Club Student Government Day.

"I hope you will stay a step ahedd of some of your elders and keep the conflicts-of-power theory in mind as you observe governmental struggles and debates," he said. "It is very seldom that our system brings rapid agreement into being for a solution which your or I, as individuals, might consider to be the obvious course of action."

In other board action, the directors declared a 4 per cent common stock dividend payable May 26 to stockholders of record on April 28.

Check your gas flame.

It may be trying to tell you something.

If the burners on your range are clean and properly adjusted, the gas should burn with a clear blue flame and a sharply defined inner cone. If there are traces of yellow, the burner holes may have become clogged with food particles and should be cleaned. If the yellow persists, burner adjustment may be necessary.

Keeping your gas range operating efficiently improves its performance and saves gas—which saves you money. After all, why waste a good thing?

SOMETHING GOOD ABOUT YOU

Wouldn't life be more happy
If the good that's in us all
Were the only thing about us
That Folk bother to recall

Wouldn't this old world be better
If the folk we meet would say
I know something good about you
And treat you just that way

If you think some praise is due him
Speak kindly of him today
for he can not read his tombstone
when life has passed away

An unkind word will cut so deep
No balm can neal the wound
A kind word will drive dark clouds away
And bring the sunshine soon

A kind word to the elderly
Will make a lasting friend
Will brighten life from day to day
Until the life shall end.

Pat Nickens, the slim hurdle speedster, skilled through both barrier events in record breaking time. He shaved two tenths of a second off the 120 yard highs with a 16 flat performance then came back in the 180 yard lows to win in 21.2.2 to better the old mark of 22.3 In addition to his track performance, Nickens and Tommy Dunaway tied for first in the high jump. What's The Law

County Must Pay For Walk Launch

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

When Hootman's wife decided she needed some groceries, Hootman decided he needed some exercise. Consequently, instead of motoring down to the store in his car, he hopped onto his son's two-wheeler and peddled off to the store with great athletic enthusiasm.

As he rode along a county sidewalk, however, he hit a bump in the sidewalk and was launched skyward out of his seat. Upon landing on his head, Hootman was a groggy man and sued the county for his injuries, which included a broken leg.

"I was the first spaceman ever launched from a bicycle seat," he complained to the judge, "and it was the county's fault. A county has a duty to maintain its sidewalks in a resonably safe condition."

"That may be true," conceded a county attorney, "but there's an ordinance that specifically prohibits bycycling on sidewalks. Since Hootman broke his leg while breaking the law, everything is balanced out and he's not entitled to collect for his injuries.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the county pay for the consequences of Hootman's unexpected space trip?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that the ordinance was designed to protect pedestrians from being struck by bicycles on the sidewalk and was not intended to protect the county sidewalk. Therefore, concluded the judge, Hootman's violation of the sidewalk ordinance was no bar to his collecting for his injuries. (Based upon a 1961 California Supreme Court Decision)

Literally on Their Backs,

but no one is about to ask her to get off. It's all part of the choreography of an ancient Korean dance in which a girl holding a buoy and a basket moves gracefully on the shoulders of the chorus. The traditional dance of the women pearl divers, it was performed during South Korea's annual folk arts festival at Chonju City. In another segment, below, dancers represent divers seeking warmth from a bonfire on the beach after their work.

Senate Quits Session In Huff

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A disgusted Senate Wednesday night quit and walked out of a night session in indignation.

Sen. Raymond Howard, D-St. Louis, refused to bring to a vote two bills — one calling for state fair housing law and another to provide scholarships for needy college students, whether enrolled in private or public institutions.

Howard said he wanted to delay action on the bills until more senators were present. At least 29 of the 34 were present for a night session called expressly to give sponsors of Senate bills stalled earlier in the Senate Budget Control Committee a last opportunity to pass their bills.

When Howard refused to call for a vote on the Fair Housing Bill—to ban at the state level discrimination against color, creed or national origin in the sale or rental of dwellings — Sen. Richard M. Webster, RCarthage, called it "a damned imposition to keep us here."

The Senate's unprecedented action came after two bills were passed and sent to the House.

One would increase state aid to junior college districts from $320 to $420 a year for full time students and the other would increase retirement benefits for employes of the State Highway Department and Highway Patrol.

Neither of the bills is considered to have much chance in the waning days of the current session, the legislature must stop work on bills on April 30.

Earlier, the Senate passed and sent to the governor bills to:

Authorize the Division of Health to inspect homes caring for the mentally retarded.

Raise marriage license fees from $1 to $3 and filing fees from 50-cents to $1.

Enable water districts to merge, and specifying how bonded indebtedness would be resolved.

Sent back to the House with amendments were bills to:

Relax regulations on oil drilling and give industry spokesmen a voice on the governing board.

Remove the requirement that the superintendent of state schools and hospitals for the mentally retarded be physicians and have five years administrative experience.

Carlton Blanks Birds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Revenge is sweet, but winning is the name of the game.

The source for that statement is left-hander Steve Carlton, who fired a three-hitter at his former St. Louis teammates Wednesday night, pitching the Philadelphia Phillies to a 1-0 squeaker over Bob Gibson, the Cardinals' ace.

"The incentive is to win," Carlton said after facing his former teammates for the first time. "That's my incentive, not beating any particular team. Sure, it's nice to come back and beat the team that traded you and beat a pitcher like Gibby. But it's just as nice beating any team."

Although Carlton played down the revenge angle, fellow pitcher Joe Hoerner let everyone in on Carlton's true feelings. "That," he said, flashing a sly grin, "is the last team in the world Steve would like to shut out." If you say so, Joe.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh rallied to beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2, San Diego edged San Francisco 4-3, Los Angeles trimmed Atlanta 40 and Houston downed Cincinnati 7-5. The New York Mets were rained out in Montreal.

Carlton, a 20-game winner for St. Louis last season, was traded to the Phillies late in February in exchange for 17game winner Rick Wise. The southpaw had been holding out for more money and Gussie Busch, the Cards' owner, reportedly ordered General Manager Bing Devine to deal him away.

The Phillies got their only run off Gibson in the sixth inning on a triple by Willie Montanez and Deron Johnson's single. Despite the defeat, the 36-year-old St. Louis ace fanned five batters and climbed past Bob Feller and Warren Spahn into fourth place on the all-time strikeout list.

The Pirates beat the Cubs with four runs in the eighth inning, highlighted by Bob Robertson's two-run homer.

Pittsburgh added two more runs before the inning was over on singles by Manny Sanguillen, Al Oliver and Rennie Stennett, with Oliver scoring as Stennett was thrown out attempting to steal second.

John Jeter's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth off Juan Marichal turned things around for San Diego. The Padres were losing 3-2 before reaching the San Francisco ace.

The game-winning shot followed a single by Derrel Thomas and wiped out earlier heroics by the Giants' Ken Henderson. The teams were tied 2-2 until the eighth inning, when Henderson hit a tie-breaking single.

Don Sutton hurled Los Angeles past Atlanta with a two-hitter—Rico Carty's second-inning double and a bloop single in the third by Marty Perez. The Dodgers gave Sutton the only run he needed when Maury Wills opened the game with a triple—his first hit of the season after 18 fruitless at-bats— and Bill Buckner's infield out. Manny Mota singled two more across

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Martin has stopped fighting with his players. He's now fighting with the fans.

The quick-fisted Detroit Tiger manager, who made headlines three seasons ago by knocking out pitcher Dave Boswell, mixed it up with a man on the street Wednesday night.

The fight, which ended in "no decision", came after the Tigers had been decked by the Baltimore Orioles, 5-2.

"I wasn't mad about losing or mad about anything," explained Martin, whose playing and managing days have been studded with battles. "But this guy was blocking my way to the team bus. He was swearing and I told him to get away. I pushed him. He called me a name, dove at me and knocked me against the bus."

With several Detroit players and a group of newsmen watching, the antagonists thudded to the hard ground with Martin's fists swirling. The brawl lasted about a minute before members of the Detroit group pried the two apart.

The fan identified himself as Jack Sears, 25, and said he has been a red-hot Detroit rooter from Pontiac, Mich., who has been living in Baltimore for 15 years.

"All I said was, 'You guys better win tomorrow night,'" said Sears. "He hit me first and I grabbed his legs when we went down because I'm not a fighter."

Martin and the Tigers weren't the only ones in action Wednesday night. Six other American League games were played as the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 21; the New York Yankees trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2; the Cleveland Indians beat the Boston Red Sox 3-1; the Minnesota Twins crushed the California Angels 12-3 and the Oakland A's took a bNNB FROM THE Kansas City Royals, 40 and 3-1.

Before the fireworks outside Baltimore's Memorial Stadium, the Orioles exploded for three runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Tigers. Boog Powell's opposite-field double to left knocked ineafg5 tie-breaking run and Paul Blair added two insurance runs with a single that chased Detroit ace Mickey Lolich.

An error by second baseman Lenny Randle in the ninth inning enabled Carlos May to score the winning run as Chicago beat Texas.

"It was sure good to win my first game with a new club' ' said Bahnsen, who was acquired during the winter from the New York Yankees. "And I especially was happy to get by the first few innings. I usually get hurt in the early going because it always takes me a while to get in the groove."

Light-hitting Gene Michael lashed a three-run triple in the fifth inning to give the Yankees the runs they needed.

"He hit the ball over my head—that's all there was to it," said outfielder Joe Lahoud of Michael's triple. "I was playing in about four steps shorter than usual. But then, where would you play Gene Michael?"

Michael, known more for his glove than bat, lined the ball over Lahoud's outstretched glove and into the left field corner. It was the shortstop's first triple in nearly two seasons.

Gaylord Perry gained his first American League victory when he pitched Cleveland over Boston.

Turkey Price High

IRONTON, Mo. (AP) — A preseason turkey hunter got little mercy this week from law enforcement authorities in Iron County, about 75 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Missouri conservation agents said they caught Jess Tyndal, 54, of Ironton, about 6 a.m. Tuesday on a farm road west of town. They said Tyndal had shot a 24-pound Tom turkey.

Tyndal pleaded guilty to a charge of hunting turkeys out of season. He was fined $1 per ounce—a total of $384.

Magistrate Judge Fred Atwood said he fined Tyndal $1 per ounce because "this was the first offender we've caught and we wanted to make an example of him."

Celtics Battle Back

Dave Cowens had that hungry l3ai He gobbled up rebounds. He gobbled up loose balls. He gobbled up points. Most important, he helped gobble up the New York Knicks.

The Boston Celtics' center did everything in his team's important 115-109 victory over the Knicks in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference finals Wednesday night. The Celtics, down 2-0 in the best-of-seven series, needed the victory and Cowens provided the spark.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana defeated Utah 116-111 in the Western Division final playoff series. Utah leads the series, 2-1.

New York entertains Boston Friday night, and Milwaukee is home against Los Angeles Saturday afternoon in the NBA's Western Conference series, which the Lakers lead 3-2.

Utah is at Indiana on Saturday night, while Virginia plays the New York Nets at Uniondale, N.Y., on Monday night in game three of their ABA Eastern Division series. The Squires lead 2-0.

Jo Jo White scored 29 points and John Havlicek had 26 but it was Cowens who made the difference for the Celtics.

Cowens got 16 rebounds and scored 23 points, including some timely baskets down the stretch when the Lakers had pulled into the lead.

"Cowens stood out," said Red Holzman, Knicks' coach. "He played very well, his best game against us, for sure."

The Celtics had a 55-47 lead at halftime but the Knicks rallied behind Bill Bradley's 14 points in the third quarter. Midway through the final period Boston got hot as Cowens and White tied the game with consecutive field goals, then Cowens put the Celtics ahead 99-96 with a hook shot and a free throw.

Bradley finished with 29 points, Walt Frazier with 28 and Earl Monroe 17 for the Knicks.

Indiana went ahead of Utah in the third quarter but needed four free throws by Freddie Lewis in the final 29 seconds to wrap up the game.

Roger Brown scored 13 of his 30 points in the third period. Indiana built its lead to 12 points in the final period but Utah fought back behind Willie Wise, who finished with 19 points, and Ron Boone, who had 18. Wise and Jimmy Jones ran into foul trouble and sat out long portions of the game.

Lewis had 15 points, while Mel Daniels had 16 points and led both teams

Roger Brown of the Indiana Pacers holds the ABA single game playoff scoring record, with 53 points in a 1970 contest against Los Angeles.

PH & T Registration Open

NEW YORK — Despite the delay in the opening of the 1972 Major League Baseball season, the Official Major League Baseball Pitch, Hit & Throw Competition (PH&T) is proceeding on schedule. Registration opened April 15. More than a half- million boys aged 9 through 12 throughout the country are expected to sign up before registration ends June 4.

The nationwide program, sponsored by Major League Baseball with Phillips Petroleum Company, is in its third year. In the first two years more than 700,000 youngsters participated.

Competition gets underway this year with local contests June 10-15. Winners will advance through local, district and division competitions until eight boys, selected on the basis of scores at the division level, win the right to compete for four national championships (one in each age group) at baseball's All-Star Game in Atlanta, Ga. on July 25.

Eligible boys may register at participating Phillips 66 stations and at many other authorized locations. In New York City, Washington, D. C. and Detroit, Mich., for example, registration and local and district competitions are coordinated by municipal parks and recreation departments or the city youth services agency.

Most contests will take place at public playgrounds, while district contests will be either in public playgrounds or minor league ballparks. All division competitions will be in major league parks.

Baseball Try-Outs

George Butler, Little League baseball commissioner, announced tryouts for boys 9 through 12, who haven't played Little League baseball in Sikeston.

Butler asked those, who meet the qualifications and who will be nine before August 1, to bring their glove and attend the tryouts Sunday at 1 p.m. at the high school fieldhouse.

Donkey Game Friday

LILBOURN -- A donkey basketball game is scheduled at the Lilbourn high school gymnasium Friday at 8 p.m.

Citizens will join with the high school faculty in putting on the show which will benefit the LHS athletic department.

Larry Warren, head basketball coach, will be among the most talented stars setting atop the donkeys and trying his skill at making baskets.

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Seven Southeast Missouri football players have indicated they will join Coach Tom Thrower's troops this fall at Southeast Missouri State College.

Three of the seven are from Dexter, where Thrower coached outstanding teams for several years. Two are from Cape Central and one each is from Perryville, and Fredericktown.

Dexter recruits are Jerry Christian, a 5-10, 185- pound linebacker and honor student; Terry Givson, a 6-0, 175- pound running back; and Danny Smith, 1 6-2, 210 - pound defensive end. Both Gibson and Smith were named to the all- conference and all- district teams.

To join the Indians from Cape Central are Mike Dunaway, a 6-0, 180- pound center who was named to the all- state team, and Josh Kellett, a 6-2, 230- pound tackle.

Other southeast Missouri high schoolers to choose Southeast Missouri State to continue their football"careers" are Phillip Bueckman of perryville, a 5-11, 200- pound tackle who can go both ways; and Frank Starkey of Fredericktown, a 5-10, 185- pound linebacker or fullback. Bueckman and Starkey also made all-conference and all- district teams.

Thrower, whose returnees from last fall's 7-3-1 season are now in the midst of limited spring drills, must find replacements for eight members of the 1971 defensive team and five members of the offensive unit.

Hawks Win 5th

BENTON — The Kelly Hawks won their fourth baseball game of the season Wednesday. They whipped the Notre Dame Bulldogs, 5-1, behind the pitching of Mike Morrow.

Jeff Jackson and Glenn Green socked in two runs apiece. The Hawks pounded two Bulldogs pitchers for eight hits, four doubles included. Davis started on the mound for Notre Dame and took the loss.

The Hawks went to work on Davis in the first inning chasing three runs across the plate. Notre Dame came back with one in the second on two walks and a single but Morrow shut the door after that. Kelly added another run in the second and one more in the third.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Frank Howell, a starting defensive tackle at Tennessee next fall, said Monday he has decided to give up his senior year in football to concentrate on his studies.

Pitching Tough

DEERING — Larry Hart of the Gideon Bulldogs was on the losing end of a fine pitching performance by Bob Rikard of the Delta C-7 Chargers Wednesday afternoon. The Chargers edged the Bulldogs, 1-0, in the baseball game.

Rikard gave up only two hits and Hart allowed only three scattered hits but an error and a wild pitch spelled defeat for the hard throwing GHS hurler.

Hart struck out the first seven men he faced and eight of the first nine.

The only run came in the fourth as Blankenship reached base on a single and moved to third when the ball got through an outfielder's legs. He raced home when Hart hurled a wild pitch.

The Bulldogs are 3-2 for the season.

Chaffee Blows Lead

CHAFFEE — Paul Schermann and John Volkerding supplied the power and three Cape Girardeau Central hurlers furnished the pitching as the Tigers edged the Red Devils 6-4 Wednesday afternoon in a baseball game.

Scott Thomas was staked to a 4-1 lead after three innings but the roof fell in on the hard throwing righthander in the fourth. Schermann connected for a grand slam homer to give the Central Tigers a 5-4 lead. Volkerding clubbed a long home run in the seventh to cap off the scoring for Cape and give the Tigers the victory.

Thomas took the loss for Chaffee and Decker picked up the win. Cape banged out seven hits. Chaffee was held to only four.

POWERFUL PENN

Johnson Stars

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Hard throwing lefthander, Randy Johnson, checked cross the town rival Notre Dame high school on two hits Tuesday afternoon on the way to recording his third baseball win for the Central high Tigers this season, 8-1.

Johnson gunned down 14 Bulldog batsmen on strikes and gave up only three walks as the Bengals rolled up their five win without a defeat.

Notre Dame jumped ahead in the first inning after a shaky start by the husky lefthander but fell prey to a hard hitting Tiger lineup and gave up three runs in the second, two in the fifth and three in the sixth.
